Evolution or God?

While all scientific theories are developed experimentally and empirically step by step from various axioms of a hypothesis on the valid theory, it is exactly the opposite with the evolution hypothesis. One claims almost fanatically that evolution is the only truth and confirmed theory, and then passionately and almost desperately searches for evidence which is absolutely against the principles of science. It is no wonder, however, that this is how it works, since the power circles have almost all universities firmly in their hands, so that the professors who are against evolution, after a few verbal "warnings" not to leave "empirical science".

They often lose their jobs, as do the journalists who don't stick to the prescribed "tolerant" for a long time, even if we don't officially have censorship. This type of censorship actually works in all areas in the spirit of the new world order, including politicians. Since scientific analysis does not find any evidence for evolution, everything is simply interpreted in this direction and at the same time everything that disturbs this picture is eliminated.

If, as a physicist, one were to delve deeper into the well-established C-14 radiocarbon dating method, one would realise how pointless, imprecise, and misleading this method can be when estimating very long periods of time. For example the lava stones that have just formed or the petrified trees caused by them are provided with millions of years, e.g. after the eruption of Mount St. Helens in the USA in 1980, new stone trees also yielded such results when they were measured, but this was of course not passed on to the public, since C-14 measurements are among the main arguments of evolutionists, and thus everything would tip over. After a deeper academic analysis, one can only see that the "evolution theory" (actually, it can only be called a hypothesis according to the criteria of science) is neither provable nor reasonable, and will remain so. And within this hypothesis there are innumerable axioms that are mutually exclusive, which also proves that one is looking for evidence only after the fact, rather than building a theory according to empirical results.

The fact is that under all chemical-physical laws it is impossible for living matter to arise spontaneously from dead elements in the primordial swamp, let alone DNA and RNA, which should arise at the same time. Besides that, DNS is more complicated and has more memory than the most powerful computer today. And should it have arisen spontaneously, at the same time as RNA, without which it cannot perform its function? And this should already have been with the first "primal swamp cell", otherwise it would not have functioned and would not have been able to multiply! Not to mention the supernatural life energy that cannot be scientifically explained. The fact of the matter is that if you reproduced all the chemical compounds in a cell, you couldn't make a cell out of it because the life energy would be missing. In all laboratory experiments, where all circumstances were optimised without limits and life energy was wanted to be "added" e.g. with electric shock, etc., it was never possible to create the simplest cell, since only God can create living things.

Because of the failure, they gave the process billions of years as an excuse, when it should have happened. And even that number of millions of years of strata is shifted back and forth by hundreds of millions, depending on the approach to the explanation, depending on what one is trying to argue. In the mathematical science of probability, all numbers multiply, not add. Actually, the probability of only a partial axiom of evolution is lower than the number zero, after whose comma there would be the other zeros in the amount of all atoms in the universe before the number one. It's a trillion times more likely that when an atomic bomb explodes on some mountain, New York, with all the buildings, furniture and the rest of the smallest details, will spontaneously emerge. And even if the primordial cells were there despite the impossibility, their spontaneously arose connection to the higher multicellular organisms is against all biological laws, no matter how much time is available. That's why we still have unicellular and multicellular organisms that God created that way.

Since this is so clear, everything has been argued with millions of years, and the second impossible has been added, that a subdivision slowly developed from a cell within it, which ultimately resulted in a multicellular organism. But a cell is the smallest biologically complete unit, and it can only multiply, and not divide into several completely independent subcells as subunits of the future multicellular organism. Billions of generations can be observed in the laboratory, at least in short-lived bacteria, and never before has such a change been detected or stimulated. One could actually break off the discussion after each point, since at each of these points it becomes very clear how impossible this hypothesis is. Also, the depth of the river in the Grand Canyon is impossible unless all strata were soft immediately after the Flood, and no evolutionist or geologist can answer how these could have formed.

But with the Biblical Flood, the answer comes automatically and logically. Some skeletons of nearly 4 meter tall humans have been found that are hidden or labeled as a ridiculous fake as this also destroys evolutionary principles. At the beginning of the Bible are the rules of the health laws. You can already see that the first people before the flood, of course with non-degenerate and therefore better genes than today, lived with only plant food for around 900 years. When people started eating meat after the Flood (because of the, in the first phase afterwards, almost plantless world), their lifespan shortened dramatically in just a few generations, of course also because of other factors such as cosmic rays and gene mutations that were impossible before the flood. Why were mutations impossible?

Usually, the main causes of gene mutations are environmental pollution, which didn't exist back then, and cosmic rays. Why did these mutations not exist? According to the Bible, before the Flood the atmosphere was enveloped on the outside with water in an unknown physical state. The cosmic rays were absorbed in this layer of water. At the same time, the refraction of light took place in it, which had produced the same light and heat intensity at every place on earth. As a result, there was only good weather, with a stable and comfortable temperature in the sense of a positive "greenhouse". As a result, the temperature was equalised worldwide, even at the poles, and without seasons. That's why you find a lot of fossils of a tropical kind at the earth's poles, which could never have lived in the cold.

Due to the lack of fluctuations in temperature, there were no clouds or rain either, just the morning dew after a mild, colder night. The air pressure in the atmosphere was noticeably higher (similar to the experiment mentioned at the beginning of the book), which made all living things significantly larger and stronger, which can be seen in the fossils of all species. It's actually still evidence against evolution, since according to this theory, only the strongest and largest survive selection, but all are smaller today. Actually, the argument that the bigger ones died out because they couldn't eat enough is pointless, since according to the principles of evolution a big one just kills the weaker and smaller ones in order to have enough for themselves.

In the case of the fossil finds, there was rather a plethora of plant and animal species present, which meant that the food for all the stronger and weaker alike was unlimited. During evolution, new species are said to have emerged, but in the last few centuries of present science we can only observe that there are fewer and fewer species, apart from desired crossings or adaptations within a species, as humans have done with e.g. dogs or horses. It is argued that species extinction occurs from the toxins of civilisation, but the same thing happens in the non-poisoned parts of nature as well. And the comparison of different horse species and their alleged stages of evolution is actually just observing many subspecies of horses that are now extinct.

One could set up super good "stages of evolution" with dogs of different breeds crossed from wolves. It is impossible to find an evolution from one animal species to another. This can only be observed empirically within species boundaries. All that is possible in terms of adaptation is turning off or turning on certain existing sets of genes, as the need arises. For example, a fish in a cave without any light has no eyes after a few generations, and vice versa, which has also been observed in some insect species. But this is also reversible, depending on the environment, but only within the species and already existing genes. Any mutation occurs only in terms of harm, and absolutely no random mutation has ever been observed that brought benefits!

Even a very complex ear develops either randomly and immediately completely or not at all, since no intermediate step makes any evolutionary sense and so could not be further developed through mutations. So many species disappear each year that efforts are actually made to conserve some. But the same thing was just as strongly present before the air pollution of the last few decades, only accelerated even more at the moment. Why did the evolutionistically superior saber-toothed tiger and related cat family go extinct first, even though they are much stronger than normal tigers and cats? At this exponential rate, if Jesus didn't come soon, most species on earth would have become extinct within a hundred years. The whole world is actually in an extreme and strongly degenerative deevolution, which came about after the rebellion against God, and like a spiral it is getting faster and wider.

Many very large and heavy tools have been found archaeologically, such as the axe, etc., which only a 4m tall person could use, made of alloys which, in today's atmosphere, cannot even be produced with the latest technologies. There are some discovered fossilised and very large, gigantic human footprints alongside those of the dinosaurs. But all this is rather concealed, as well as the finds of human skeletons, which are almost 4 meters tall. There are many photos of proof, in which today's man comes no more than waist-deep in such a skeleton, and which, among other things, are posted on the Internet by honest people from the archeological teams.

At the same time, the other side also puts just as many manipulated and obvious fakes online, which in turn make the whole thing ridiculous. This is the best kind of censorship that doesn't even exhaust resources. This is presented to mankind as a legend, although much evidence is emerging from all quarters to actually confirm it. If we look at the layers of the earth with supposed phases of millions of years, we find in many places fossilised tree trunks that go through 2-3-4 layers vertically, and therefore "obviously" have grown many millions of years, since the evolutionary approach divides and defines these layers in this way. However, since all these petrified layers of earth and sand were created during the Flood in a short time, according to the Bible report it is months, at that time soft layers from various attempts in some places covered some trees that had not been uprooted. We can also observe the same when evaluating the St. Helens eruption of 1980.

These layers of millions of years that have such smooth transitions contradict any geological law of erosion, since even over such long periods of time everything should have eroded oddly and differently. Even if the hypothesis of millions of years were correct, geologically speaking there would have to be only one layer without boundaries, the structure of which gradually changes from bottom to top. In fact, these precisely delineated strata are some of the strongest geological evidence against evolution. In addition, in many places on earth, some intermediate layers are suddenly missing. And these layers, which are present worldwide, are significantly thicker in some places, despite the smooth transitions.

They shouldn't be, either, since they would have to be a few million years older at these points, and the part next door, which is allegedly eroded evenly thinner, should not be smooth up and down worldwide. You can ask any geologist how an erosion must look like. And elsewhere in the world the layers of a few million years are suddenly missing, although all transitions up and down to the rest of the layers before and after are also smooth, without any erosion, which is a geological obligation! Consequently, some parts of the earth would have to have a different calendar. As if the earth were many millions of years older in some focused places, while time must have been frozen in the remaining parts of the earth!

This is quite in accordance with the principles of physics, isn't it? Or? Hence the question: Was there a responsible geologist at the time who always said, ok, now we're going to make a new layer for the next few million years starting this year, and put it on top of the last one? If something grows continuously and has smooth transitions, this is only possible in a living world, or in a cave where the stones are created by drops. Like the rings in a tree, for example, which can only take place under complete isolation from the rest of the environment... Should the entire earth have had constant calcareous drops all over the world for hundreds of millions of years? That can only be realistic in a fairy tale. And even if it would have been so, the uneven erosion would be much faster.

Even with the stalactites and stalagmites in the caves, which were also provided with millions of years, it was found experimentally that under given circumstances it could even be done in months or years. In today's powerful earthquakes in oceans, one sees the same spreading of the smooth mud layers over thousands of kilometers that look the same as the old ones. Even fossils, in which one observes the finest structures in animals and plants everywhere, are impossible today, since decomposition leaves only the bones. Then it is said that this was possible due to local instantaneous burial. But this is not only local, and the fossils are distributed homogeneously worldwide, which would be impossible with the slow build-up of these stone layers, and the worldwide deluge also confirms, since the layers look the same worldwide.

So much is done to deny God and His creation! So that even the most highly educated, intelligent and cultured people force themselves to believe in evolution, a theory that would make even a child shake his head after a few logical reflections. The most important thing for the theory of evolution, the transitional forms between the species, were never found, since this is of course not possible either, because they do not exist at all. An alleged transitional form between reptiles and birds was presented with great excitement everywhere, until later one had to realise for oneself that it was just one species of bird.

It is therefore interesting that many scientists, in the spirit of their evolutionary religion, are constantly constructing the desired human ancestors from a single piece of bone or a buried pile of found bones of various species. They don't search empirically for what happened, but try with all your might to create the desired situation from a bone and 2 teeth. As already said, this is against any approach to logic, and yet it is hailed by most as proof. The imagination is so deeply developed that such approaches would never get through in a court if you had to prove some things by reconstruction. There you are only allowed to reconstruct a face from an existing skull or half of it, and not from just a tooth and bone, although it is not even certain that they belonged to the same individual. And this is also strong evidence that evolution is not a science but a religion. A real science, as already mentioned, is a theory confirmed and shaped by empirically constructed knowledge of correct axioms of a growing hypothesis.

But even if all evolutionary axioms were correct, the problem of the origin of matter or entropy "elimination" would remain inexplicable without God. Although one confines entropy to the thermodynamic micro-level in the gases to appease one's conscience, the macro-level, particularly with moons, planets, stars and galaxies, is constructed and physically functioning in the same way as atoms and molecules are at the micro-level. Like the gas particles, these celestial bodies are not bound to any fixed structure. But this would mean that a supernatural force is holding everything together in harmony. When observing the movements of the planets, solar systems and galaxies in time recordings, one can even observe symmetrical figures of unimaginable precision and beauty, instead of the physically unavoidable solar systems and galaxies colliding at times with annihilation and entropically diverging.

How is it that in many places in space, like Orion, there are nebulae with clustered and grouped stars, contrary to every law of physics and entropy. In the despair of continuing to reject God, further nonsense comes, such as the imagined invisible and never confirmed black matter, which logically pulls everything inexplicable back in the desired direction, since missing gravitational and attractive forces suddenly arise as desired. You could almost say that a human wants to take over the role of the creator, which actually often happens, and started with Lucifer's rebellion in heaven. In the continuation of this strong passion to deny creation, the big bang theory comes at the end, since the man of this religion, which does not want to accept God as king and creator of everything in the universe, does not understand timelessness, eternity, the origin of matter and life. The big bang is the most illogical axiom and one that is deprived of any scientific principle.

As in a vicious circle, this in turn demands evidence for an expansion of the universe, which would have to be present in the event of a big bang, which is possible at first glance with the redshift of the light spectrum of distant galaxies in the telescope. In fact, the redshift can represent both the rotational movements and the expansion at very great distances. We all know that the empirically analysed universe in the vicinity works only rotating, in the sense of atoms, solar systems, galaxies, etc. And since everything is so without any doubt, one would have to follow the scientific principles, consequently under these two ways of interpretation from the redshift (this only happens in the distance) choose the rotational movement, as this corresponds to the known pattern. Or do distant galaxies and celestial objects suddenly move differently? Do different laws of physics apply depending on the distance of the same objects?

In principle, for example, the walking person in the desert under strong sunlight and many kilometers away should fly like a bird, because behind our powerful binoculars it could look like walking and flying cannot be distinguished because of the great distance and circumstances, and the leading scientists made the decision that it should be counted as flying and not walking. In the case of the big bang theory, one again interprets an unclear matter in the desired direction, so that at the same time, while distracting oneself, one forgets that a big bang is not even theoretically possible and logical, because from a "primordial particle" of the big bang, smaller than an atom, new stars cannot always come forth! That would be a perpetuum mobile like no other! In a universe expanding after the big bang, the distance between all celestial objects and galaxies would have to increase constantly.

With that in mind, even our solar system or the Milky Way should be slowly drifting apart! Very logical, isn't it? Was it observed? But you can't see it anywhere, as everything stays very close together, and even many nebulae exist. For this, an ever-expanding spherical center of the universe which is absolutely empty would have to be seen. Since it doesn't exist, the escape route is found again at a distance of too many light years. But if the big bang was that many years ago, even our galaxy shouldn't be together, since it would also be very far from the big bang point, so this expansion should have taken place long ago. This means that no matter what excuse comes up, everything already in the visible range speaks against the big bang. Even today the density in the universe is not getting smaller.

Actually, in a universe expanding after the big bang, the big bang point should be like a water source that constantly sends new "water", i.e. new particles, into the "river" of space, so that the river is always full. And even the compression of the particles into the celestial objects is illogical, since in the vacuum all particles are entropically pulled apart, and only a large rotating celestial object would have the gravitational force to hold the particles together. But then how would the gravitational force come spontaneously, even if such a dense celestial object could form? Gravity needs a rotating object, which cannot arise spontaneously. And also in the present universe, this rotation of the celestial objects would have to become slower and slower, since the planets are not a perpetuum mobile.

This alone shows that God keeps the whole universe in motion with His supernatural power. In addition, only the free, uniformly flying particles could come out of a smallest point of matter at the big bang, and no compacted matter, which would have to move apart more and more according to the expansion principle. All of this would actually mean that the "natural" big bang point of a particle or concentrated energy smaller than an atom, like an eternal source, would still constantly spit out new galaxies. I'm sorry, but even a small child wouldn't call that a smart idea. But the highly educated scientists are in a position to call such things truth. And even if everything were correct, everything would be impossible just because of the entropy and the constant gravitational rotation, since it is without any doubt physically clear that free-flying particles and gases diverge in the vacuum and do not concentrate into planets and stars like the behaviour of the particles created by the big bang and gases that are actually impossible under these circumstances are described.

Then the scientists again make the statement that the principles of physics were not valid during the big bang. Was there a point in time when the principles of physics suddenly became valid? Physics is probably also evolutionary. Either there are principles of physics or there aren't! The big bang is like shooting a cannon of buckshot, the many particles of which would recombine at a distance, and in a vacuum where everything is being pulled apart! You get caught up in more and more illogical things just because you don't want to admit that God created the universe and holds it together today. Even if we wished to distance ourselves from God, as a human being we would feel deeply uncomfortable venturing such meaningless thoughts with scientific pride. But the scientists cheer each other and make each other big compliments. Most people are much impressed by this behaviour, think that these are great minds and that calms one's own conscience.

President Kim is also greeted with clapping hands everywhere in "free" North Korea, but people looking from outside the country feel deep condolences for this sadly blinded population so passionately celebrating a so limited, self-defeating and illogical "reality". In the whole history of the earth the majority has never been right, but only imposed its own concepts and goals, if possible seductively! State and religion were always united, which is no different today. A believing friend of mine from the largest Christian church frankly told me the other day that these intolerant terrorists who are disturbing the world with their stupid concept of creation must be removed from society. My question is who would actually be intolerant of this and why one shouldn't democratically present both concepts in parallel in all schools, so that everyone could make their choice freely, since we are all told that we live in a democratic world, whereby at the same time very, very many scientists do not support evolution? In the end, the smartest scientists capitulate and admit that there must be some supernatural force that started it all, otherwise all approaches would collapse.

But again this "force" is not a god, but something undefinable, without personality. At least my professor of mathematics told me in private, after deepest calculation research, that this discipline also only points to God, and he finally had to calculate that God must be a being of concentrated energy from the entire universe. With the evolutionary approach devoid of any scientific credentials, anyone who claims otherwise will be attacked, and schools and universities have a duty to have this officially endorsed teaching in their programs. And had man developed through evolution, he would have no conscience and no goodness, and would not help weaker humans and animals, as this would interfere with survival selection. It is no coincidence that the Bible says that Lucifer clouds the mind in such a way that the wiser one being on earth without God presents himself, the more limited his thinking becomes as seen from heaven. The Bible also says that in the very end, before Jesus comes, mankind will reject the Creator. In fact, the principles of evolution in the human world would produce the inhuman fascism that we have seen very well.

The theory of evolution actually comes from the other side that is against God and unfortunately will hold power on our planet until the second coming of Jesus. Since this approach is touted as a confirmed theory by the top academic circles (either because of its own success or because of its direct affiliation with the evil circles), most actually very intelligent academics accept it as the truth and don't delve deeper into it because the arguments for it seem logical (only) at first glance, and it has to be right because the majority confirms it. Just as the majority before the flood laughed at God's warning, so does the majority today. Shortly before the second coming of Jesus it indirectly laughs at God, and is therefore unfortunately soon destroyed, as was the case with the Flood. Revelation, the last book of the Bible, says that the last people of God, before His coming, will sanctify the Creator and keep His commandments, both waiting for His very soon coming and being persecuted just before it.

All the signs of the imminent coming of the Bible have already been fulfilled. There are these two mutual considerations of the origin of this world, life and the universe. These are not just two different views and religions, but two confronting camps that have directly or indirectly chosen their respective sides. In the eternal sense, our choice will decide our own future, regardless of whether it was made consciously or unconsciously. Every person has been given enough opportunities by God to find the truth and use their conscience to choose who to choose in all areas of life. Therefore, the term unconscious is only so at first glance, and rather means that one was not interested in the love and truth offered by God and easily accessible, and thereby rightly lost eternal life.

One religion is belief in God's creation as recorded in the Bible, and the other is belief in evolution, which is actually anti-God, although the majority of Christians now believe that these approaches are compatible. But that would be a degradation of God, and would render His creation and power meaningless. And without creation, you really don't need God anymore, or He would be a powerless man from another planet, just watching while the "divine" in us makes everything we want possible. Exactly what Lucifer actually wanted to achieve from the beginning. He wanted to be God himself, which, regardless of his wickedness, is not possible because of his created nature. Jesus said that no one can serve two masters, i.e. God and the devil.

This is not incomprehensible and applies to all areas. What is very interesting about ecumenism, which will soon spread to the rest of the world's religions, is that you can believe in anything and tell it freely. It is only when one represents the full biblical truth that one is suddenly intolerant and not allowed to "insult" others, basically the same as before the flood. While in the Middle Ages those who believed in the truth were killed as heretics, today there is a very cleverly conceived new inquisition that "democratically" forbids the truth within the framework of "tolerance" without the masses even realising it, similar to the evolution. The bible also announced this as one of the last steps of the other side, shortly before the coming of Jesus.

In order for you to better understand the deep meaning, on the following pages we will explain how the universe came into being and why the battle of the two sides came about and how it will end. You will get the answer why evil exists and good people suffer.

The War in Heaven and the History of the Universe

Our God is an almighty being, beginning before eternity, although we cannot understand it. God the Father, through His Son Jesus, created the universe with innumerable planets, with sinless, immortal and perfectly happy human inhabitants, all of whom He considers, including us, as His children. These are not the so-called aliens with UFOs. Aside from the fakes, their appearances are also a supernatural weapon of the other side of evil, and are a materialised appearance of fallen evil angels, thereby deceiving people and turning them away from God. More of that later. And God, as such an immeasurably and unlimitedly powerful person, created man according to His form and appearance, but of course without omnipotence.

In terms of Divine form and appearance, It means, of course, the non-degenerate pre-fall man. Our God created the angels before these perfect and uncorrupted inhabitants of many planets (who are in the condition of pre-fall man). They are the executive ambassadors, stewards and guards of His space kingdom. The angels live with God in heavenly Jerusalem, which according to Revelation is a city of cube shape, with sides a few thousand kilometers long, wide, and high. This space capital is at the center of the universe around which all the galaxies revolve. The representatives of all planets regularly visit the capital to exchange experiences, praise God and worship gratefully. Among the angels, as in any army, there is a hierarchy. Our Almighty Creator is a being of order rather than entropy without organisation. If space functioned entropically at the macro (celestial object) and micro (atomic) level, everything would instantly collapse.

Entropy is the true and natural principle of disorder in physics, but God is omnipotent above it, and keeps it in harmony with His unlimited power every second. From every galaxy and star, to every cell in our body and the smallest particle of matter. Even the principle of evolution would be impossible without higher power, since entropy immediately destroys all formed structures by throwing them out of order, and does not allow a higher-order state, which should actually become more and more complex for evolution. Even at the highest level, we observe that even impossibly large galaxies slide around without any collisions occurring. This makes the depth of the nonsense of evolutionary principles more clear.

In very indefinable ancient times before eternity, before anything else, God the Father, by other names: our Lord, YHVH, Jehovah had His only firstborn and uncreated Son, Jesus, as Son and God with equal omnipotence and divine nature as Himself as Father, brought to the world of the universe. In the Bible, Jesus also bears other names such as Lord, the Word, Immanuel, the angel of the Lord, Zebaoth and Michael. Since the Father and His Son act as two persons in absolute harmony, thinking in the same direction, without any misunderstandings or opposing works, one speaks of one God on the outside, since in human pagan mentality one always speaks of competing "gods", fighting each other for power. At the same time, the expression one God means that only the Father first exists since indefinable time before eternity, and is king of the universe.

Although Jesus is of the same nature and power as His Father, He always remained obedient and faithful to His Father, at His right side of the throne. His father does not keep him under himself and has let Jesus create the whole universe. When Jesus next created the angels, God specially formed Lucifer, the most powerful being of created nature among the angels, to be the prime minister and head of the cherubim (God's personal honour guard) and all the angels of the kingdom of the Father and Son. We know that, the Father and Son, as the only Divine Beings in the universe, have unlimited power, with which they are the only ones who can create something else. They both keep space under control with the physical laws without being subject to them themselves. Only father and son have absolute immortality in the whole universe. The Holy Spirit is Divine Power with a personality of inexplicable nature, which connects Father and Son and at the same time emanates from both and can be present anywhere at the same time.

But the Holy Spirit is not to be viewed in the twisted sense of pantheism that God is present in every leaf. And also not as a third divine person, as pagan religions and Christianity, which has fallen away from the Bible and God, believe. God really speaks to every human being with His Holy Spirit through the conscience. If one permanently rejects conscience, and irrevocably transgresses the line, much like Lucifer did then, one has rejected God's grace and love, and thus made the unpardonable blasphemy against the Holy Spirit, with definite loss of eternal life, since in such blunting of conscience no return would be possible, even if God opened another possibility. God in His omniscience knows exactly where that limit is. We will see later that Lucifer, after his rebellion against God and taking over the earth, wanted to present and hide himself in all pagan religions as the third person and false god, lastly under the misused name Holy Spirit, since he himself had always desired to be the third divine person and to exalt himself, which was also the cause of his rebellion and fall.

Father and Son are the only omnipotent beings who make the plans and decisions for the entire universe together and alone. All created beings, including Lucifer, do not have absolute power and creative power, nor absolute immortality, and are subject to the physical entropy that God controls with his unlimited power. This means that they would all die the second God would remove His protection. However, the angels, as God's guard in the capital, have a somewhat higher and more powerful nature than the people of other planets who were created only after them. Angels do not need a tree of life like humans do, but they are just as dependent on God for sustenance. Lucifer was also the greatest musical talent and the chief composer of music in space, and as cherubim leader and prime minister enjoyed the high regard of the rest of the angels and inhabitants of other planets.

His position as the most powerful executive was immediately below the Father and the Son. Although inexplicable, this high honour was not enough for him. He was particularly jealous of Jesus as the Son sitting on the right, and also wanted equal power and position, as well as participation in the heavenly council of Father and Son. Later he wanted to seize the divine nature of Jesus himself, regardless of the fact that he could never have done so, even though he was the most powerful created being. In the further course of his undignified and senseless uprising he has imagined from earth to snatch the kingdom of the universe from father. This shows that without God, even the wisest person of all creation can no longer think logically and falls ever lower until eternal death is grace's only solution. The All-Knowing and Almighty admonished and warned him, along with promised forgiveness, which Lucifer had only interpreted as God's weakness, rather than seeing the love and grace in it.

With the ostensible aim of aiding and enhancing the rule of God, he has outwardly begun to pervert the words of the Almighty and has ended up openly portraying God as a dictator because of His eternal law. He had promised the other angels a reformed and free system without restrictive laws, which would be an even happier model of God's rule, and he proclaimed to fight for these reforms as prime minister. He thought that as the "third divine person" he would represent the interests of the rest of the angels even better. This heavenly law of the Ten Commandments was the actual protection for all beings in the universe. Imagine a train leaving the rails or a fish leaving the water because it would be fed up with this dictatorship and restriction... Leaving the law is actually self-destruction. God Himself, despite His unlimited power, which includes absolute goodness and honesty, could not use underhand methods.

By lying, Lucifer managed to deceive many angels by presenting his evil views in a good light. Despite His omnipotence, God did not want to destroy him, although he had deserved it even then. Since no one in the entire universe has ever had the opportunity to see this model of Lucifer without the law of God and His complete dominion, when it was destroyed everyone would have thought that God really is a dictator. Consequently, all would only serve Him out of fear, in order not to lose their own lives. Would you like it if your child were obedient and clingy just out of fear, out of fear that you would destroy it otherwise? God also wants absolute happiness without fear among His children, all of whom He loves without limit. God loves each of us indescribably more than we are capable of loving our own child. He does not want to force anyone to make the decision for Him and eternal life.

Otherwise He would have to make obedient robots out of everyone who would never be able to make any other decisions. But the case of Lucifer shows that from the very beginning He gave every created being absolute free will, since this is the only possible thing in terms of freedom without dictatorship. In the final phase of this conflict on the planet Heaven, Lucifer launched an open war against God so that God had to throw him out. This was a real war, the traces of which we can still observe in the form of comets, meteorites and other celestial objects destroyed in the universe. Hence the promise in the Bible that after the final destruction of sin and the fallen angels, God will create a new earth (cleansed of the destruction and poisoning) and a new heaven (with all traces of space warfare removed). The rebel won over about half of all the angels, some of whom repented and came back to God, so according to the Bible, a third of all angels became fallen demons.

Even then, they had the opportunity to repent and come back to God, but the deceiver convinced them that they had already crossed the line like him, and that God would destroy them, which was not the truth. Even then, God did not destroy Lucifer, now called Satan. He wanted to show the whole universe the depth of the consequences of the concept and Satan's rebellion through the following maturation so that everyone could decide with complete certainty. In a democratic sense, he placed the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil on every planet where everyone could make his choice and where Satan was allowed to preach his message on every planet. During this time, life on earth was created with humans. The humans were chosen to be raised to the angelic level after passing the test and to replace the fallen angels. That's why Jesus said that the saved people in heaven will become angels since they passed the test this time!

Since Adam and Eve, as newly created beings, had no experience of other worlds, Jesus personally came to them every day to offer friendship and enlightenment. He warned them that by separating from God they would lose their life and explained how evil and dangerous Satan was. In fact, this test of fidelity at the tree of knowledge was very simple compared to today's temptations, and intended only for proclaiming one's decision before all space. Since Adam and Eve were warned, Satan has used a camouflage trick which is very similar to that used today, where he often appears as a "spirit" of the departed, or as an ancient ascended "master" such as Juwal Khul, etc., since even today the most would refrain from the directly appearing Satan. He had used a serpent (one of the abilities of angels that man does not have) and "showed" Eve that the fruit of that serpent's tree of knowledge enabled divine intelligence with new abilities such as the gift of speech.

The snake as a medium promised Eve that she would not have to die by eating the fruit of the forbidden tree, but would become like God herself, and that God would actually be afraid that the others would also receive His power and abilities. At that time the serpent was the most beautiful animal with wings in Eden. Cursed for bringing mankind to sin and his dominion as Satan's medium, her genome's protections were immediately removed and she became the ugliest degenerate animal. One still finds instances where snakes with small winglets hatch and die quickly, since some residual genetic traces still exist in the genome. This is not an evolutionary step, but a weak manifestation of old genes.

The Plan of Salvation

A king from a very large people has moved his army to reclaim a Separatist province. Soon he was horrified to find out that someone was constantly revealing all the other side's war plans, causing many casualties among his soldiers. He then announced that the traitor would receive 100 lashes, which normally no human can survive. He felt immeasurable sadness when, to his surprise, his own son was exposed as the traitor. If the son had stayed with his job, the punishment would have been justified despite the grief, since the son would continue at the next opportunity. But the son honestly and deeply regretted it, not because of the consequences with punishment, but for reasons of conscience and the realisation of how badly he had fallen morally. He asked his father's forgiveness from the bottom of his heart, even though he had already come to terms with death on the inside, and just wanted to declare his love to his father so he could remember him in that light.

His father forgave him too, but couldn't cancel the sentence, otherwise the whole kingdom, which kept all citizens under protection from the barbarians, would fall apart. In that case, all the generals and people would say that he is not a just ruler, since he would certainly have handed their sons over to punishment immediately if they were guilty. Although he was the strongest ruler, he was bound by his own laws through his goodness, since he did not want to introduce a dictatorship. The only thing that was still legally correct and possible without violating the protective laws, and in spite of saving his deeply repentant son, was to take the punishment on himself, since he, as the author of the laws, could do this. He then announced to the whole nation that he would take the punishment himself in order to pardon his son. Of course, this self-sacrifice would be pointless if his son had not sincerely repented. Since the king was the strongest human of the time, there was at least some hope that he might survive those lashes, although he made that decision independently. He survived the lashes with the last signs of life after a three-day coma and subsequent recovery. In doing so, he saved his son's life, as the scars on his back will always remind him of.

Everyone was so deeply touched by this sacrificial act of love that even the renegade province came back voluntarily, and all the citizens accepted him even more as their beloved king with every atom of their hearts. This empire has grown stronger than ever, with free citizens ruled democratically and dignified at the same time. In the same way, Adam and Eve regretted their deed, although after what had happened it was already too late to free them from punishment. And the whole universe has been watching tensely what is happening. Satan has the claim to mankind and the earth above all, since they voluntarily decided against God. It was still not clear from the outside why Lucifer's model was bad or wicked. However, it was legally impossible to allow Adam and Eve to return. God the Father and His Son therefore decided that Jesus, as God's son and creator, would sacrifice Himself on the cross so that His penitent children, humans, would have a chance at eternal life. So God would take the punishment of the people.

Since according to the law everyone will lose their eternal life by consenting to sin, Jesus immediately sacrificed a lamb in Eden, symbolically announcing His vicarious sacrifice on the cross. By doing so, He legally prevented the immediate deaths of Adam and Eve and tied their lives to His future sacrifice. Soon after, it happened that their son Cain killed his brother Abel out of jealousy, since Abel was closer to God and obedient to Him, thereby enjoying His blessings. For the first time, the whole universe could see with horror where this "freedom" leads. Until then, no murder or lie had ever occurred on any planet. After this first murder, with the consent of the other worlds, God was able to destroy the earth and the fallen angels without being considered a dictator. But He did not want to lose His beloved and repentant children Adam, Eve and Abel, since He could not yet make His sacrifice under this constellation.

The protection of man after the fall through enmity with the other side and their methods of deceit.

Since man at that time could still use 100 percent of his brain and was still slightly inferior to an angel, God had to take an additional protective measure. Knowing that man will soon de-evolve after the Fall, and we will come as far as we do today with only 5-7 percent brain use, God set the enmity between humans and fallen angels with the prophetic promise that repentant ones people are saved through His sacrifice. The biblical promise of enmity also has the second meaning, namely that we had to remain protected only in three dimensions so that the demons could no longer have direct access to us and became invisible to us.

This prevents them from using their might and supernatural powers to tempt us beyond the limits of our minds and separate us from God and eternal life. In fact, without this protection, all humans would have become literal slaves of fallen angels, as can be seen with possessed humans. This protection also serves physically, since in the degenerate state we could not survive in the bright, supernatural world, even surrounded by benevolent angels, since their light would be too strong for us. The angels have the dual form and the property to be able to switch between the energetic and material form, whereby they can also take on a different appearance than their own when materialised.

In front of the whole universe, which is watching all the time the great struggle of two sides for every soul on earth, only then the fallen angels are allowed to materialise in our dimension in front of a human and address him directly or indirectly, as well as in the last one step of obsessing him if, democratically speaking, he trespasses on their territory, knowingly or deceived by decision or action, thereby giving indirect consent. The deeper, broader and more extensively this person enters their territory, the more right the other side has to affect him directly. You usually start with the little things on the other side and, influenced by this, go further and further in the direction of your own imprisonment. No one can blame our God for leaving us to be deceived. He has therefore sent us the Bible as His love letter, detailing all the traps and minefields of the other side and the path to eternal life. Reading the Bible with prayer also puts us under His special supernatural protection, since this time we are on His territory of our own free will.

Thus has it been prevented that a man beyond his ability be tempted and prevented from choosing our Savior with free will. Through this measure, the fallen angels, in spite of their supernatural powers, could no longer work directly on earth, since this God-imposed enmity between humans and demons deprived them of direct control over humans. Therefore, after the Fall, with the help of certain people who openly accepted them, they founded pagan religions that have their origins in ancient Babylon with the tower after the Flood, and behind whose supernatural "gods" these demons are actually hidden. Thus they got the opportunity to be worshiped directly by deceived masses and to steal from these people the promised eternal life after the second coming of Jesus out of envy, because they themselves know that they will soon be destroyed and want to take many with them.

In doing so, they want to experience at least the joy of being unlawfully worshiped in this short time of a few thousand years, which is pleasant for their evil character, in order to distract themselves from their impending eternal death. In these ancient cults such as the worship of the "gods" Baal, Diana, Semiramis, Tammuz, Greek and Roman cults etc. many miracles happened which had "confirmed" the deceived people that these demons were "really" divine. This has continued into our times, so that even in the Christian world Semiramis is worshiped as Holy Mary, Tor as thundering Holy Elijah, etc., apart from more open cults where the demons appear as Tibetan masters, etc. Soon they also started appearing as "ghosts" of the dead to show us that there is no real death, only a form change. Finally, we will also deal with the topic of whether there is life after death. With this they want to convince many that there is no death as a result of sin, but that we are immortal by nature and have a divine nature. This is exactly what the serpent told Eve.

But in terms of the established principles of democratic elections, as already said, it's very interesting that the demons can't just appear in front of everyone without being given the access key by our prior exposure to something pagan or magical, whatever in the Christian world Religion is heavily involved, consciously or unconsciously. This already starts with the horoscopes, divination, reading coffee grounds, worship of the "saints", meditation, "searching" for water veins and other things. It has been noticed how the water groups in crystal form, which is used by the other side to take people into their captivity. So when researching the structure of water with an electron microscope, it was found that the water in the body is formed into micro-crystals, similar to snowflakes. Their shape has a strong physical interaction with the environment.

It can be observed under a microscope that this shape remains symmetrical and perfect when a calm type of classical music is played. However, as soon as harmful syncopated beat and rock music (main music of today) is played, the crystals are severely deformed in a degenerative manner. In a test, the plants were significantly stronger, more fertile and healthier than the others under classical music. This shows that the vibrations have an influence on our body. Since we ourselves are made up of more than 70-80% water, we can guess what damage today's popular music does to our body and mind. As already mentioned, Lucifer was the composer of the universe before his fall, and he still knows today how to use music in a targeted manner to achieve desired effects, since music has a much stronger influence on our body and brain than many other things in this world.

There are also other aspects such as "backward masking" (the backward messages), for example in a Queen song where you sing "another one bites the dust" but hear "start to smoke marijuana" backwards. And that incorporated into all popular songs such as Lady Gaga. These messages bypass our intellectual block, conscience and conscious filtration, and are stored right in the back of our minds as true and correct. By doing so, one can achieve some things with the masses that one above all can be observed in today's youth. These hidden messages are hypnotic in nature and hypnosis is one of the main weapons of the evil side. This brings us to understand why the tribes of Africa and the Caribbean, that practice voodoo rites and magic, fall into trance and possession after dancing for hours to heavy drum-beat music.

Many musicians, such as David Bowie, openly say that all rock-pop music is modeled after syncopated beat voodoo music, and the principles of which have been brought into a modern form that is present even in swing and has the same effect. This is also logical, since along with the rest, the entire media industry belongs to certain circles of the new world order that work for the other side in exchange for wealth and power. In this sense, additional hypnotic messages are also used in films and music videos in the form of fast-moving images added in the shortest part of a second, which are only perceived in the subconscious and also slowly shape our personality. This hypnotic method could be reinforced even more efficiently by the 3D technology. Therefore, it is no wonder that the mass mentality has changed drastically in the last few decades.

The boundary of feelings of good and evil moves drastically. Compassion, true love, honesty, morality and selflessness are much less present. In terms of taste, one can also observe that the group Beatles, or later Elvis Presley, which is much more pleasant and calmer than the modern and dangerous charismatic "Christian" beat music of the time, was rightly perceived by society at that time as something, not obvious at first glance, harmful things were looked at, which opened the door for the even worse rest. So it's no wonder that nowadays even the heaviest forms of black heavy metal, where Satan is openly celebrated, starting with e.g. the smallest signs like outstretched little and index fingers to open sanctification, is perceived as a form of normal art, which, reinforced by spiritistic books and films from the other side such as Harry Potter etc., makes us more and more imprisoned.

In addition, such posters, records, CDs, books and other things in our homes give the other side the key to us, and deprives us of God's protection. A young woman who listened to a lot of rock music and heavy metal and later met Jesus could not understand that the other side kept attacking her at night after that. Later she realised that she also had to distance herself from this music and these books and threw everything away. The plagues have weakened, but still remained. After much prayer, she discovered that she still had a sticker from these music groups on one of her jackets. As soon as this was gone, the attacks were gone as well, since the demons no longer had any claim or right to stop the angels of God.

It would seem fanatical to some, since in the deceived world everything has become normal, although it is anything but normal. Therefore, many do not understand that this battle between the two sides is very real in the background and that the slightest mistake gives access to the other side. In earlier times there were different types of music where you could decide for yourself whether you wanted to listen to lascivious forms of cabaret music or moral songs from other sources. Today, the media has made that almost impossible, since this modern music is even playing in the background in shops.

A former rock musician and spiritualist, Brian Neumann, who comes from the scene himself, explains this very precisely and well-founded in his videos on YouTube. One learns from this that and why today's modern "Christian" music also secretly sanctifies the other side and has an extremely negative influence on the brain, although the musicians themselves believe that they are praising God with it. They do not understand that they are actually praising the other side and are also dragging others into the abyss of eternal death. But it was no coincidence that rock music was played in front of the assembled masses at the big event on St. Peter's Square with the Pope.

The flattering message was, go on enjoying your sinful life without rebirth, just look to me as your guide and you will be saved forever. Unfortunately, most will wake up too late. On the contrary, are existing also real Christian groups like Fountainview Academy with heavenly beautiful music that you can listen to for free on YouTube. This music is not chorally monotonous, and brings a lot of joy to the heart. Incidentally, the monotonously slow, esoteric music from the Far East also has an equally hypnotic effect. Also in the diet one can observe deeper and deeper changes in the masses. In recent decades, candy and chocolate have become sweeter, and fast food has become more flavourful, which actually encourages the loss of emotional control. Our great-grandfather couldn't enjoy today's chocolate because it would be unbearably sweet for him.

And sugar makes emotions uncontrollable, but people controllable, which the other side wants as well. But when you switch to healthy eating, the natural flavor comes back, so you too will find the sweets unbearably sweet. But let's come back to the energetic water structure. There are many books that describe this matter, but they all lead to the hypnotic esoteric New Age approaches. The best terrain for such traps are border areas, which also include natural nutrition far away from the wrong conventional medicine. Unfortunately, under the name of natural medicine and the corresponding books, the traps of the other side are usually hidden, which, despite an attractive appearance, nice and loving, self-convinced (cheated) advisors, and temporary improvements, bring eternal death with them, and the sick in the captivity of evil side.

One of them is homeopathy. It was conceived in esoterically spiritistic circles of theosophists, whose founders, like Ms. Blavatsky, openly write that Satan is their "god". Interestingly, the theosophists are very humanistic to the outside world, where they even "help" children with their Waldorf schools and many youth farms etc., making natural Demeter and Weleda products possible, whereby one naturally knows that there are also other influences on these poor children, which unfortunately cannot be recognised in time. Among the theosophists on the lower level there are many honest and deceived people who themselves do not realise that they are serving Satan in deceiving other people. I

In fact, behind the scenes, all homeopathic manufacturers are owned by Theosophists, much like all seed companies are indirectly owned by Monsanto. Homeopathic remedies are among the most dangerous remedies that allow the other side access to a human being. While on the one hand the substance, which conceptually as bad should fight the equally bad, is completely dissolved in the highest potency, and as a result actually attracts the bad (like the opposite with refined salt) (we have seen with the purest water by reverse osmosis that it then eats away at the tube) shaking is even more dangerous during production. As we already know, shaking can erase or specifically write energetic information in water crystals, similar to music. It is hidden or openly worked with magic.

A guru-spiritist often even openly controls and designs the production, which stores the desired information in the water crystals. Most of the time it's automated afterwards. There, hypnotic information is also smuggled in, with which the demons get a direct key to access us. As part of camouflage, hypnotic aspects also placebo-like make us feel better. Through this technique, the natural blockage/protection given by God after the Fall is bypassed by our body in a similar way to beat music or meditation and yoga. Although today we cannot understand the principles of demonic effects in a scientific sense, we can at least grasp with logic, that in the background there is a big war on both sides for every human being.

In this dangerous world of Earth, the only one in all of space that has been under the dominion of Satan since the fall of Adam and Eve, we must be extremely careful. Many traps are like an ever-present minefield to separate us from God and eternal life in perfect happiness. Since these evil beings do not have direct access to us because of the God-given blockade, they have developed many deceptive methods to reach us indirectly. And as we know, the health sector is the best environment to search for victims, since most people long for health and conventional medicine cannot always help.

There are also other areas of fraud from the other side, such as New Age holistic medicine, metaphysics, pendulums, horoscopes, miracle healers, meditation, mantras (hypnotic repetition of the names of certain demons), acupuncture (needles are actual antennae of the "cosmic" energy on the other side), classic hypnosis, "bio" energy, iris reading "diagnostics", theosophical approaches, mesmerism, magnetism, "light" therapy (among other things, e.g. with salt as allegedly concentrated light), Sungasing (too strong light in the eyes also has a hypnotic effect) to years of "nourishment" with sunlight (you get the power from the other side, you lose eternal life for it), electrostimulation, meridians, chakras, yoga, coffee grounds and hand reading, radioanesthesia, dowsing, the rest of the Far Eastern approaches of the New Age, complete esotericism, as well as black and actually the same "white" magic, horoscopes, modern films, books, syncopal beat music and shows.

Although hidden behind the invisible dimension, by God's banishment, the powers emanating from Satan are electric and magnetic in nature, combined with the highest technology, which is manifested in the things mentioned above, and often makes a possessed think that he is himself full of "bio" energy, or "capable" of telekinesis, like Uri Geller etc. The yin/yang principle also wants to say that Lucifer will exist besides God forever, although he destroyed him as a bringer of suffering for eternity soon after the coming of Jesus and the lie that good and evil are mixed in both.

Only God is absolutely good and Satan is absolutely evil. Likewise, the approach that allegedly eternal "divine" is present in every human being who is part of a universal unity and does not need a heavenly god who supposedly does not exist that way. This includes, among other things, the doctrine of reincarnation, with Buddhism, whose other extreme with many demonic "gods" like Krishna, is Hinduism. It is interesting to observe that only those people who stayed in one of the demonic areas mentioned suddenly get visions of old lives, or after clinical death remember how they briefly "were" in heaven, or suddenly see themselves in bed from the ceiling of the room. Such a thing can never happen to the people who are with God because they are protected.

These supernatural manifestations have only one aim, to separate us from God and throw us into the deep bondage of the other side. Although such people are happy about their "supernatural abilities", they will unfortunately realise too late after the soon coming of Jesus that they will receive eternal death together with Satan, since they listened to him and not to God, and from him these got flattering "powers" and visions because he had access to them. And they will have no excuse since all these warnings are in the Bible everywhere. The same thing can also be observed with visionaries like Nostradamus and other false prophets, who are often only recognised as non-biblical at second glance, although they themselves are convinced that they have God-given abilities.

The doctrine of the supposedly divine immortality of every human being exists for two reasons: Man thinks he is divine and does not need God in order to be given eternal life, in which case he actually loses it. Second, the fallen angels, demons, can then appear as spirits in the form of deceased people, and in that form take possession of the deceived people directly without their fear. Often a medium is used that is "capable" of passing on the messages, or "self" moving objects on the table, as well as e.g. independent knocking. It is no wonder that God explicitly forbade contact with the dead in the Bible and announced in Revelation that the other side will perform an extremely large number of supernatural and deceiving miracles in the last days.

Apart from that, the fallen angels also appear in the channeling, e.g. as Djwal Khul, other "masters", or even as a false Jesus, where He would be only one of the masters and "gods" in the world of esotericism, which blasphemously wants to steal His divine property and cheatingly reduce him to the level of one of the many masters (demons). There are different cheating methods for every human taste. From the esoteric world also comes the lie from the other side that Jesus allegedly had connections with women like Mary Magdalene etc. in a physical sense and that He did not die on the cross for us but emigrated to the Far East where He would have had many children.

In the Christian world there are then charismatic "prophets" with biblically incompatible visions and approaches with "Holy Spirit" effects and hysterical "worship services" with "divine" speaking in tongues and healing. Also the meditation prayers with the "Holy Spirit", where one listens for several minutes after the prayer what the "Holy Spirit" will answer, come from the other side. Every time we empty our minds, as in classic meditation, the enemy gains direct access to our brain. In addition, nowhere in the Bible did Jesus allow the Holy Spirit to be worshiped directly, only the Father in the name of Jesus.

Mormon non-biblical prophecy also comes entirely from the other side, along with many deceptive movements such as Scientology, Gurus, Universal Life, Indian esoteric and Buddhist movements, and other myriad groups whose common trait is Bible distortion, rejection, and many spiritually esoteric approaches. All of these principles are based on Lucifer's first lie, "You shall not die, but be like God," which actually brought us to earth separation from God, death, suffering, and the wicked domination of Lucifer. Because of God's protection, in the sense of free will, from the watching universe, where every human being is allowed to make his own decision, Satan has to bring people to his domain through deception so that he can enslave them internally and make eternal life impossible.

His best deceit is that the devil is not a person, just inner negative thoughts. If you think thieves don't exist, you don't lock the house and soon it will be robbed, which is what is happening here. However, do not be afraid because in the helping love of God and the Bible you will also find the way to come out of this bondage to God's side and get eternal life. Every person who has decided for God since the beginning of life on earth will be resurrected to eternal life at the soon coming of Jesus and will not belong to the soon to be destroyed earth. And even today, God offers us His help to come out of this captivity to Him, because He sacrificed His own divine Son on the cross for our eternal life.

In any case, there are very many ways of tempting one to die. Since Satan could not work directly because of God's prevention, he had to find enough wicked people to work with him in every period of history during the last 6000 years in which he has secretly ruled fallen humanity and earth. The same is present today in ruling circles behind the scenes. On the one hand they got the wealth and the power, on the other hand they have to discuss and coordinate this power with him personally so that his goals can be implemented in an organised manner. Of course, within the limits that God has given him differently for each part of the story.

Later we will also understand why these limits are being reduced more and more, especially in the end times of today. Today's powerful also have direct contact with him and other materialised demons, so it is no wonder what corrupt aims of the new world order are being successfully implemented openly before our eyes. At the same time, we should not listen to our clergy, but only to the Word of God. As we pray, the power comes from the Holy Spirit and allows us to understand the words. In that sense, the world is polarised. There can only be one truth. And that is only in the Bible.

All other religions are developed from the other side, although most of these deceived people themselves do not understand that by doing so they are deviating from eternal life and God. But God will pull many out of it if they allow Him or if we pray for them. Unfortunately, most of Christianity today has become more pagan or fact-falsified, and deliberately uses only certain out-of-context quotes from the Bible to support all the false teachings and traditions. It is important to look after the real truth and contact with the only true God himself in the complete Bible with prayer.

The flood

But let's go back to the first days of the earth's history. Although the whole universe could see Abel's first murder, its inhabitants did not fully realise the depth of the sin. At the same time, Satan, as the official representative of fallen earth (voluntarily given to him by Adam and Eve) was allowed to appear in the capital of the universe because of democratic principles.

There he himself presented this murder as a result of the "injustice" of this "dictatorship" and that under his "just" rule without the intervention of God, if everyone decided in his favour, such a thing would no longer come about. Though deeply shaken by this, the inhabitants of all other worlds have remained aloof from his uprising. Although they trusted God out of deep conviction, a tiny germ of insecurity remained in the background. That is why God had to ripen everything deeply. However, no one wanted to contact Satan, who constantly visited the Tree of Knowledge of all the planets. This tree was the only spot on all the planets where it was allowed to appear freely at any time and tempt the inhabitants.

Two groups soon formed on earth, one of which remained faithful to God. As it became more and more corrupt, they withdrew to the mountains. Unfortunately, that split didn't last long, and they started coming downstairs often to trade. More and more were seduced by the beautiful, lascivious and immoral women of the other group until almost all of them strayed from God. These antediluvian people, who fell away from the side that worshiped God, then especially led the rebellion against God on earth and, together with the rest of the immeasurably corrupt people, shaped the moral-political-religious constellations in such a way that the appearance and the sacrifice of Jesus became impossible. It is the same then and now that one who forsakes God becomes seven times more wicked than one who has never known God.

That is why this group also arose from these, which fought particularly hard against God, similar to today's people in the fallen churches of God, with only outward apparent piety, which, like a tomb with a beautiful facade, are full of corpse bones on the inside, which we especially see in the Middle Ages, nearly 100 million good people were tortured and killed "in the name of God." Even if it seems impossible today, the Bible says it will come again near the end. Should that be impossible? Hitler and Stalin also acted similarly in our generation of the modern world. Jesus needed a people devoted to Him, in which He could grow up as a simple man renouncing the immortal nature before His sacrifice on the cross, so that He dies as an adult on the cross before the whole universe, after having resisted sin all his life.

This was necessary in this form, since Satan had claimed in front of everyone that no one can remain without sin, not even God without His power, and therefore the law would be dictatorship. Throughout history, God has His organised followers who have cultivated His true religion. But they were always attacked and seduced by different things from the other side. As the situation developed in this way, God was compelled to destroy through the flood humanity, which had become so unimaginably immoral and vicious, and which, despite strong intelligence, had lived mainly according to instincts. This should make His plan of salvation possible for all who choose Him.

The antediluvian world was a much higher civilisation than today. Of the estimated 3-4 billion people, despite His warnings through the prophet Noah, God was only able to save 8 people who chose Him. Until then, Noah had preached daily for 120 years about the flood and the end of the world at that time. The population rejected this message of God through the craftsman Noah, and pointed to the "true" statements of the scientists and theologians of the then fallen church (similar to fallen Christianity today). The scientists of the time explained to everyone that the rain and the flood were impossible since there had never been rain in the entire history of the world at that time.

The consequence of leaving their thinking to the scientists and theologians was that they did not go into the ark with Noah and drowned in the flood. The Bible says that before the second coming of Jesus everything will be as it was before the flood. Can't see the same condition? In any case, through this act, the Almighty enabled the first coming of Jesus, since he was able to form a believing nation in which Jesus could already survive as a baby, and He also afterwards led the followers of truth through His prophets. The other side continued to do everything they could to prevent the coming of Jesus, thereby delaying the plan of salvation in order to delay their own eternal death.

The biblically prophesied apostasy after the flood

Very soon after the Flood, the fallen people in the newly founded city of Ur-Babylon began building the Babylonian tower as a symbol of their own power and as a symbol of union with Satan and defiance of God. There was the cradle of all demonically inspired religions up to the present day. An example is the statue of the mother with the baby. This symbol of Babylonian Christianity actually stands for the "gods" Semiramis and Tammuz, whereby Christians today are told that these are Mary and Jesus as a baby. According to the Bible, the true mother of Jesus has no divine qualities and is not an intermediary between man and God in heaven! Jesus said in Luke 8:19-21 in the presence of His family that His mother and brothers are the ones who hear and do the Word of God.

And 1 Timothy 2:5 says that Jesus Christ is the only mediator between man and God! Again the other side wanted to steal His position from our Jesus. In truth, statues of Mary with a high forehead are a portrait of Lucifer, who leads people so deceived to unknowingly worship him instead of God. At the same time he wants to "show" in a humiliating way that he is holding Jesus as a small baby under his "great power". As early as the Old Testament, the Bible expressly forbade worshipping the "Queen of Heaven", as the "goddess" Semiramis (also called Diana) was depicted with the baby Tammuz as the same statue as now in Israel, since the religion of the time also of God later had the same apostasy.

Many of the statues in today's churches even come from these archaeological areas, as do the paintings and statues of many "saints" who are actually Romano-Greek "gods" of the same age. And the biblical 10 Commandments in Exodus chapter 20 (the ones in the catechism are modified!), expressly forbid the veneration and worship of any image, icon or statue of anything in heaven or on earth. The statue of St. Peter in Rome is actually that of the Roman "deity" Jupiter, and the obelisk in St. Peter's Square there comes from the ancient Egyptian religion with the cult of fertility. Today's churches only use Christian names and some appropriate excerpts from the Bible, the rest is almost pure pagan religion on the other hand with the aim of keeping people away from God.

For example, if one were to delve deeper into who the statue of "Liberty" in New York actually represents, one would be very surprised at how we, as the deluded masses, fail to see that the powerful are openly exalting the other side in front of our blind eyes. While the Bible states that Jesus is the only mediator between God the Father and man, He has been deprived of this position and introduced human confession, which directly dishonours the Lord Jesus, and gives divine attributes to mortal priests, just like what Lucifer had "promised" at the tree of knowledge. If Mary and the saints were our mediators, Jesus would no longer be needed, nor would prayer, since confession would make it unnecessary. When sins are forgiven by priests, God the Father is actually no longer needed.

In so doing, people have been deceived into believing that the Bible is just a religious history book of ancient times, only in certain places containing the words of God, and this has been perpetuated by the tradition which is now valid and authoritative. Therefore, unfortunately, most people are not even motivated to read the Bible, where they would be amazed to discover that they were deceived to the wrong side, and that all the details of this apostasy were already described 2500-2000 years ago, and that God only speaks through the Bible, which has been brushed aside by the opponent through tradition, although it is very widespread.

Actually, the ancient primordial Babylon was so strongly organised and powerful against God that God personally had to destroy this Babylonian tower at that time and build up the language barriers so that the first coming of Jesus, as before the flood, does not become impossible again. Before that, there was only one language and nation in the whole world, which by God's intervention became many languages and peoples, so that at least at that time Satan could not centralise his power, which nevertheless will happen in this days near the end. After Babylon, the battle of good and evil continued. The enemy has brought the deepest apostasy into every God-inspired movement.

But the Almighty has always had at least a small remnant group or individuals who have remained faithful to Him, despite the philosophy and religion of the majority. In the book of the prophet Daniel, almost 500 years before the sacrifice of Jesus, the exact year of his messianic death was prophesied for us on the cross. We all know that this prophecy was fulfilled literally. The rabbis have cursed those who read and interpret this book from the Old Testament, which is also found in Judaism!

Why is someone cursed for reading something in the accepted Old Testament? Because this book announced everything, including that the majority of God's people at that time would participate in His crucifixion, and that the Jews are no longer His official people and religion on earth because of God's equally accurately prophesied rejection. Why did this happen? Because they rejected Jesus as the Messiah prophesied in their religion. Their real task was to prepare for His first coming and to make the whole world aware of it. Apart from that, they have abused the status of the chosen nation before, and despised all peoples through their own pride, instead of pointing them to the true God.

The deluded majority defected to the other side then, and most do so today, since almost 98 percent of all rabbis use Kabbalah, the book which only at second glance recognisably pays homage to Lucifer. The alleged sign of David, the satanic-magical hexagram star, actually arose during Solomon's temporary apostasy with loss of morals, idolatry and spiritism, when he had written the magical book Kabbalah directly serving Satan, and introduced this "David" star. Although he later repented and came back to God, the consequences of this falling away from the wisest man have remained to this day.

The blasphemy of this religion comes from the fact that they still reject Jesus as the Messiah, and likewise do not want to read the God-inspired book of Daniel which so clearly prophesied this truth, lest their conscience be troubled. Of course, this does not mean that God rejected all Jews! On the contrary, He actually founded the first Christians out of the Jews who remained faithful at the time, and even among today's remaining Jews are many who accept Jesus.

According to the Bible, after the death of Jesus everyone who accepts Him as Creator and Savior and keeps His Word from the Bible belongs to the official spiritual Israel, regardless of their origin. The Bible also says that in the end times many Jews, will rejoin the vine like the cut branches, i.e. come to the family tree of complete truth and spiritual Israel, which is becoming more and more fulfilled as more and more of them accept Jesus as Accept God and Messiah.

However, it is then misunderstood by many, and it is expected that a literal earthly kingdom will come into existence, with New Jerusalem and the Temple on this earth, even though Jesus clearly said that the Temple will never again be built by man. All this in turn abuses the other side, which even calls Jerusalem the capital for the 1000 years of supposedly coming peace. This side even brought the wicked Hitler to power so that through his atrocities he would force many Jews to flee back to Israel so that today's State of Israel can come into existence.

Have you never wondered why no countries wanted to take in the threatened Jewish refugees at the time? Because all countries are governed by the same circles of power and carry out their plans synchronised, although they wage wars with each other on the outside. Napoleon already wanted to found the State of Israel in line with these long-term plans. The point is that according to the Bible, everything that is associated with Israel in the New Testament has a spiritual meaning, since everyone who decided for God after Jesus' sacrifice belongs to spiritual Israel.

In this sense, the last book of the Bible, Revelation, describes the last 144,000 before the coming of Jesus as belonging to the 12 tribes. This is taken as evidence that Israel will arise again as God's power. Unfortunately, all tribes except for the tribe of Judah had long since been exterminated at that time.

That is why today this nation is called the Jews and not the Israelis, since the second term includes all 12 tribes. Only the state bears the name of Israel to symbolise the ancient power. Likewise, the Bible describes the last 144,000 before the coming of Jesus in terms of the full might and power of all 12 tribes that will withstand all attacks from the evil side during the 7 plagues with the full might and power of Jesus. The apostasy of the Christian church with the man of wickedness and the ever stronger coming world dictatorship of the NWO.

Some of this was also prophesied in the book of Daniel, which was also fully fulfilled, since Daniel was an inspired and true prophet of God. In the Book of Daniel and the Book of Revelation of John there is a precise prophecy about the beast ruling soon after the death of Jesus until His second coming, which in the New Testament in the second letter of Thessalonians 2:3-4 was described as a man of wickedness on the throne of the temple (apostate) Church of God who will want to make himself equal to God. In the book of Daniel 7:8 he is described as a small horn full of blasphemies that will arise among the other 10 great horns and will destroy three horns out of those 10. A horn is the symbol of power. According to this fulfilled prophecy, the 10 horns brought about the collapse of the ancient Roman Empire.

The Western Roman Empire was actually destroyed by 10 barbarian tribes. In the new successor kingdom, the political-religious power of the Roman bishop increased greatly, whereas the Herulians, Ostrogoths and Vandals resisted massively and were subsequently destroyed. Today's European peoples emerged from the remaining 7 tribes, which can be traced well in history. The little horn's quality of exalting itself above God was also fulfilled, as the pope always blasphemously claimed the right to change the laws of God. Jesus Himself said that anyone who changes even one point of His law is cursed. In Bible prophecy the term beast has the meaning of a state power.

Because on bible study the man of wickedness was so evident, care was taken to shift the interpretation of this prophecy back to the past, and so this role was given to Antiochus Epiphanes IV, who persecuted the Jews about 200 years before Christ. But this is a pointless distraction since in Daniel the development of all 4 world empires are described by name since inclusive Babylon, where Medo-Persia, Greece and the Roman Empire were prophesied, and that the little horn and 10 horns will come into being afterwards.

Even shifting it into the distant future is of no use, since this prophecy is connected with the following 1260 years of Inquisition power of the little horn and with many other details, which has been fulfilled very precisely and correctly up to the present day. If you study the Bible deeply and with prayer, you cannot be deceived. As said, even the duration of the inquisition he led, with the consequent temporary mortal wound of his power, was foretold as well! According to Daniel and Revelation he would reign 1260 years before the mortal wound and persecute the true children of God.

This persecution began in the year 538, when the pope was given state military power by the neo-Roman emperor Justinian I to violently persecute the "heretics" (people who remained true to ancient Christianity). At the same time, the Vandals were finally destroyed as the last people to resist. The papacy gradually became fully established with more power than the rest of the kings, until 1798, when Napoleon dissolved the Vatican as a state and broke the power of that church. This prophesied mortal wound, according to Revelation, will be fully healed shortly before Jesus' second coming, and He will rule mankind under false religion in disguise as a "peace leader" with a stronger dictatorship than ever before.

In any case, our Saviour has made every effort to announce the plan of salvation to His children, and has revealed the necessary details of the future of the struggle between the two sides to encourage them, but at the same time enable them to ward off the snares of deception. Actually, due to the new world order and the coming false and, at first glance, peacefully unifying world religion, this power is in the process of building up the greatest power and worst dictatorship in the entire history of mankind shortly before the coming of Jesus.

And this false religion will also enable the coming of the false Jesus. Satan will appear personally and say that he actually belongs to all religions and at the same time is Jesus, Imam Mahdi, Maitreya, true Messiah, Juwal Khul, Budda etc. and belongs to all people. His only dream has always been to have the whole world worship him, which he wasn't allowed to do until that point. But even then he will deceitfully disguise himself and not show himself as Satan, knowing that most would jump off. This will happen just before the true coming of our Creator. From history we know that all world empires also had a religion that had the same effect on the people as opium.

In this world religion one will unite all religious ideas of the untruth of all religions, but at the same time those with true biblical and creation approaches will be persecuted by law and force as intolerant fanatics and terrorists against peace, although this is almost unimaginable in today's democracy. The people in this world dictatorship will be manipulated in such a way that they will be convinced that they are living in the greatest democracy in world history, with the finally coming peace of 1000 years with love and religion, which is only disturbed by these "intolerant" people. The people who are faithful to God are then regarded exactly like today's terrorists.

Incidentally, the real terrorists are also organised by these circles of power, so that the masses can be prepared by this negative example to eliminate those who think differently, and at the same time the reins of the dictatorship are tightened, which is presented to the masses as an "improvement" of security, whereby all are glad that the "terrorists" can be recognised in time by the camera surveillance etc. It is also done to massively increase the tension between the Muslim and Christian worlds, since the world religion and the world state can only be made possible through major conflicts and subsequent "peace". The important thing is that there used to be no radical Muslims and all the radical leaders are actually infiltrated Jesuits.

All radical fighters are also very well trained and founded by western secret services. Likewise, tensions with highly orthodox countries like Russia, whether communist or democratic, are not accidental, as we have a major Catholic-Orthodox-Protestant union on the horizon, and leaders on all three sides have already publicly agreed on it. A few years ago, the Jesuit and charismatic Pope Francis agreed on a union of Catholics and Protestants with charismatic Protestants under the leadership of Anglican Bishop Tony Palmer, and shortly thereafter also officially announced a union of the Catholic and Orthodox Churches with the highest Orthodox Patriarch of Constantinople.

In the meantime, the papal project of the world religion of "peace" has also been accepted by US President Biden as the main goal. This also includes the worldwide epidemics with the harmful mandatory vaccinations, which in the latest generation also affect the human mind, of course in a negative sense, so that the masses remain obedient to the coming world dictatorship. Likewise, in Jerusalem, the Pope prayed in a Jewish manner on the temple wall. Communism and fascism did not come about by accident either, and were also organised from the same side. The book "Mein Kampf" was actually written by a Jesuit and not by Adolf Hitler. These were only the samples with which system one can bring about the world state.

As a hybrid of these many principles together with "games" (Hollywood, football, Eurovision, MTV, colourful magazines, etc.) and "bread" (humane elimination of previously self-prepared economic crises and wars), the final world system is slowly evolving before our eyes, and is getting stronger and more present. Meanwhile, all Muslim leaders, as well as the leaders of the rest of the world religions are infiltrated Jesuits, and even at many official meetings, where leading Protestants, rabbis, Dalai Lama, leaders of Hinduism and the rest of the religions have already jointly said that all religions shall converge (unite). One is actually just waiting for a common charismatic prayer for peace to become necessary after a major economic and military crisis, which the Pope will then lead as planned. And as the pinnacle of this mass manipulation of all people who live according to biblical truth and who do not attack anyone, are regarded as intolerant terrorists.

In truth, it is exactly the opposite, as world religion will persecute these dissenting people within the framework of "tolerance," which will culminate in the soon-to-be 7 plagues. But this is exactly what was prophesied in the Bible in the book of Daniel and in the book of Revelation. The point is that every human being throughout history has had time to make the decision upon which eternal life depends. But by the second coming of Jesus and the end of this world, every human being will have decided whether to choose Jesus or the wrong world religion on the other side.

And that choice means either eternal life in a resurrected and immortal body, full of happiness together with our Creator, or eternal death. Therefore, shortly before His coming, our Creator must unfortunately also allow the evil side to develop to the maximum so that every human being can make a decision.

For this reason, God had to fulfill His biblical promises that even the stones will speak if those called do not carry out their task. And today's churches have meanwhile fallen so deeply into the apostasy that even openly homosexual bishops, as in the USA, are elected as church leaders. And the Bible just says that the deepest moral apostasy will reign in the last days, just like before the Flood or in Sodom and Gomorrah. If you recall the moral and religious beliefs of your youth, the difference from today is shocking. These ruling circles are also concerned, as has been explained, with ridiculing all scientists from biologists to archaeologists who scientifically prove creation.

Although evolution is accepted also by today's religious leaders, it was invented to deny God and turn mankind away from Him. It must be emphasised that no church or sect brings us to God and eternal life, but only the communion with our dear Jesus, since He died for us on the cross, so that we can receive eternal life despite sin if we make the right decision, although the penalty for sin is death. Eternal life is so incredibly easy to grasp that we will wonder in heaven why we were so insecure and full of fear.

When we receive new birth and power to change character and way of life from our Creator, He will cast every sin, even the smallest, into the depths of the sea as if that sin never existed. Regardless of whether you were a repentant murderer or some other bad person. Jesus also gave eternal life to the serious criminal next to Him on the cross at the last moment. It is your choice, and God invites us to make it. At the same time, the evil enemy whispers to us, as he did to the other deceived angels who are now fallen, that one has gone too far and is so hopelessly involved in sin that there is no possibility of salvation. He tells us that we have already done the blasphemy against the Holy Spirit and that there is no turning back.

But the blasphemy against the Holy Spirit is when one no longer wants to listen to His words in conscience until the conscience is dead! And since we are still thinking about saving, even if we are already on death row, this is a sign that we have not gone too far, but that if we make the right decision, God will save us. We are only to realise that Jesus will personally fight for us and at His near coming will destroy this axis of evil.

The true and false religion and importance of the 10 commandments

Today's churches only take the Bible in their mouths symbolically and support the cold sinful life as something completely normal. The Bible, according to them, is just a good book without binding commandments, in which one should not take everything literally, and thus indirectly is not a book of God. The majority then elevates the tradition of the fathers above all, without anyone thinking about what it represents.

We should think with our own head, outside of the guided crowds being led straight to the abyss, with everyone saying the path must be right since so many are taking it. Similar to a true case where a person trusted the navigation system so blindly that they ended up in the river. This does not mean that God only has His children in "chosen" churches or groups!

In Revelation, Jesus specifically tells us that His children are to leave the New Babylon of these false religions and fallen churches, which means that His people are still scattered everywhere and are now being warned of the sinking of the majority on Earth's Titanic. Today one can observe that the godless Beatles or Elvis Presley are much more pleasant and quiet than the modern and dangerous charismatic "Christian" beat music in the churches. Actually, the charismatic and the accompanying ecstatic "Christian" pop/rock music will strengthen the godless ecumenism of all fallen churches, since this part is becoming more and more normal in all, even in the Catholic Church.

With this falsification of Christianity and the counterfeit gift of the Holy Spirit with conscious distortion of the way the Holy Spirit was poured out on the apostles at that time, the masses were seduced to the other side by uncontrolled emotions and at the same time brought under the control of this opium. At such charismatic services/gatherings come the dancing and singing to very loud music, with particularly strong emotions and arms raised and swayed. These people are convinced that they are praising the true God and that they are on the right path, since this must be a great revival with many people, without noticing that the other side is being elevated and that they are becoming more and more enslaved by it.

We have already spoken about the hypnotic effect of such music on the psyche. At that time, the apostles received the gift of tongues in order to preach to the other nations in their languages in harmony, so that they could understand it, without ecstatic approaches like today. Therefore, in a single day, thousands of people were converted back then, accompanied by healthy emotions and true beliefs from the Bible, without passion obscuring thinking, Bible study, and God's commandments! Today, people in the church murmur incomprehensible tongues as if in a trance, which according to the Old Testament pagan priests also did back then, often trembling possessed and falling en masse to the ground. Nowhere in the Bible does it state that this is normal.

At the same time, many young people are present, as they enjoy an almost ecstatic atmosphere with popular dance music of the other side. Many "confirming" healings happen, with people even getting up from the wheelchair, since Satan works many miracles in such an environment, which, despite short-term improvements, result in the loss of eternal life. The fact that the other side will perform many miracles in the end times has been announced very clearly in the Bible so that no one is deceived. Unfortunately, these people do not see how deep they have fallen into the pit of deception, most sincerely believing that they are doing right and serving God.

You are in special need of help, and you should be told the truth before it is too late. The multitude of people is no proof that this is a God-led revival, since God has given clear premises for it in the Bible, and at the same time has said that Jesus will find almost no one on His side at the second coming. But one suggests to these dear people that their high number and emotion level proves the truth. Most do not read the Bible, but believe that God is telling us directly how we should act. If they read the Bible thoroughly, they might also be astonished to see that these anti-Bible and therefore anti-God messages come from the other side. They are told that only the heart is necessary and not the law of God (in truth, both are important), actually suggesting that if they paid attention to everything in the Bible they would be like Pharisees, and that the law is only held in the Old Testament.

In terms of the true biblical gift of tongues, exists one case of a missionary who wished to preach deep in the jungle. His only translator became seriously ill just before the start. The preacher prayed deeply for God to do a miracle and went before the people with confidence. Suddenly he was able to hold all 17 lectures in the language of this small tribe, at which many were converted to Jesus. They said he spoke without an accent. Immediately after the end he could not speak a word in that language. This is biblical speaking in tongues, as in the days of the apostles! We should remember that God's religion is not caused by strong emotions, but by conversion and new birth, and the blissful biblical life that follows. With this comes deep inner peace and happiness without uncontrolled emotions.

In fact, this movement is also organised by the same circles of power on the other side, so that all churches can be more easily united under the Pope, and the Ten Commandments and the Theology of Truth are rendered irrelevant and invalid. As far as the validity of the Ten Commandments is concerned, and whether they are still valid after the sacrifice on the cross, one can state the following. Actually, only the Jewish sacrificial laws and the ritual Sabbath of Passover (according to the Old Testament this has no connection with the seven-day week and the Ten Commandments) were no longer binding, since they all only served to point to the sacrifice of Jesus on the cross.

When Jesus died on the cross, an invisible divine hand tore the veil in the Jewish sanctuary of what was then the temple in Jerusalem to show that the sacrificial laws had become obsolete, since they were there to point to the future sacrifice of Jesus on the cross. These temporary sacrificial and ritual laws on the papyrus scrolls were placed outside the Ark of the Covenant, which contained only the two tablets of God with the Ten Commandments, so that it was understood even then that these are not eternal like the Ten Commandments. Jesus said He didn't come to abolish the law but to fulfill it. By this he meant the moral law, i.e. the Ten Commandments. Many claim that the Ten Commandments were fulfilled at the cross and thus became invalid. One justifies the alleged invalidity of the Ten Commandments by claiming that Jesus replaced them with just two when He said:

- "Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets." {Matthew 22:37-40}
- "If ye love Me, keep My commandments." {John 14:15}

Did He only mean these two "new" commandments? In fact, if the moral law could have been invalidated or altered, Jesus need not have died. When He said to love God and neighbor that was simply a summary of the Ten Commandments and not their substitute. The first four commandments tell us how we should show our love and deepest respect to God, and the remaining six tell us how we should show love to our neighbor.

It is also claimed that Jesus thereby abolished the fourth commandment, which enjoins the keeping of the Sabbath, and that today's Sunday has become the new day of rest to commemorate His resurrection. But Jesus actually only quoted these two commandments as a summary of the Ten Commandments from the Old Testament. Moses had written the two commandments as God's words and as a short form of the Ten Commandments in Deuteronomy 6:5 and Leviticus 19:18. Moses received the tablets with the Ten Commandments personally from God. Today's interpretation would mean that God would have canceled His Ten Commandments as soon as they were issued, as far as the Sabbath commandment or the prohibition of images is concerned. But God Himself says His Word is eternal. The Jews also understood these two commandments correctly and, like Moses, kept all ten commandments.

This means that we are not allowed to interpret this arbitrarily and may cancel individual commandments such as the second, in which religious icons and statues are expressly forbidden, or the fourth, in which the Sabbath, i.e. Saturday, is commanded as the Creator's holy day. The Sabbath was already the required day of rest for Adam and Eve and Jesus personally confirmed its eternal validity. He always went to the synagogue on the Sabbath. The fourth commandment in particular says that by keeping the Sabbath we acknowledge and praise God as Creator.

Since the majority consider this commandment to be invalid, it is no wonder that most Christians also recognise evolution without a Creator, without realising that they are rejecting God personally. According to the New Testament, all the apostles kept the Sabbath even after Jesus died. Jesus, in Matthew 24:20, in the prophetic announcement of the destruction of Jerusalem (which happened in AD 70) and the persecution in the end times, said that we should pray not to have to flee on the Sabbath or in the winter.

These words referred to a distant time after His crucifixion, when Sunday would supposedly have long since replaced the day of rest. But Jesus said He was Lord of the Sabbath. Revelation, the Bible's last prophetic book of the future, written by the apostle John decades after Jesus' resurrection, says he was in vision on the day of the Lord! What day was that? We should know that the Sabbath, i.e. Saturday, is the only day of the Lord! The Bible says that after Jesus died on the cross, his disciples kept the Sabbath that followed according to the law. We can be sure that throughout the New Testament they kept the services on Saturday, the Lord's Day, regardless of what nation they were among.

Only the Emperor Constantine, who allegedly became a Christian and legalised the Christian religion, moved Saturday to Sunday, the pagan day of the sun god Mithras, by two decrees in the years 321 and 325 AD, and thus merged Christianity with Paganism. Already then the initially inconspicuous internal persecution of the Christians who had remained faithful began, after the first persecution of all Christians in the Roman Empire before that. When God founded Christianity, Satan did everything possible to exterminate these followers of God with the brute force of the Roman emperors.

But this persecution has brought more and more converts. So he changed strategy and brought them away from God by mixing them with paganism, leaving only a small faithful minority, which was then nearly wiped out by the Inquisition. Why is the Bible relativized in the churches today and rejected as the binding word of God? Because you don't want to do God's will. Revelation 14:7+12 and 19:10 states that the people of God in the end times will praise God as Creator (the rejection of evolution and the associated attitude of the Sabbath) and will keep the Ten Commandments and have the faith of Jesus. God's people will also have the testimony of Jesus, i.e. the Spirit of Prophecy, which was fulfilled in the writings of Ellen G. White.

We will soon see that in the last phase before the coming of Jesus, the Sabbath will be like a decision vote for one side or the other, like in the beginning the choice on the tree of knowledge. They should not listen to what the majority says, only what the Bible tells us. In truth, we are born again through fellowship with our Creator through prayer and Bible reading, which results in living the Bible and conscience as His children and keeping His Ten Commandments. Conversely, one cannot say that as a newly born Christian one should no longer keep the commandments. The Bible is clear on that. Jesus said that a tree is known by its fruit.

The difference with the Pharisees is that keeping the commandments comes after the new birth as a result of the action of the Holy Spirit, while those in the other group, according to Jesus, try to express the faith and deep the commandments only on the outside in front of the others, like white-painted tombs, without having God in their heart. That is why Jesus blessed the prayer of the sinful tax collector. He had specifically asked for mercy and that God would forgive his sins.

On the other hand, Jesus described the Pharisee as godless, who only praised his achievements in prayer, although behind the facade he had much more sin than the tax collector. This shows that just keeping the commandments without the new birth does not bring eternal life, but after the character change by the Spirit of God we automatically start keeping all Ten Commandments. So the statement of Jesus, "whoever loves Me keeps My commandments" is completely logical. On the other hand, the pope says that as "representative of God on earth" he can change his laws and times at will.

In the writings of Catholic bishops it is openly stated that Sunday is the sign of papal authority, since the sanctification of Sunday is nowhere found in the Bible and the Protestant churches would thereby also recognise the authority of the Catholic Church. Actually, this change in the law (catechism) and the times (Saturday to Sunday) was also prophesied in Daniel 7:25 and Revelation 13:6. In addition, the papacy, depicted as a beast out of the sea, will forbid buying and selling in the end times to all who do not accept the mark of his authority, see Revelation 13:16-18. The other people will have his mark on their forehead or right hand.

Now we have seen that Sunday is the mark of papal power. Nowadays we can observe that people want to replace cash and ID cards with chips. Just last week, the new Pope Francis said that he is committed to ensuring that everyone should have the all-purpose chips on their right arm and forehead under their skin "for their protection". Soon, without these chips, you will no longer be able to buy and sell and you will not have true freedom of movement, since you will be located everywhere via satellite GPS and you will also not be able to cross the frontiers. And then everyone will have to participate in the chips, the mark, and the world religion of "peace" if they don't want to lose citizenship. This beast was given an even more precise description in Revelation 13:18, number 666. The Pope's title is known to be Vicarius Filii Dei, which means "representative of the Son of God". This results in exactly this number 666, if you interpret the letters as Roman numerals and add them up:

I=1, U=V=5, L=50, C=100, D=500

This removes the last doubt that the Bible means the papacy. This is not an attack on ordinary Catholics, as they really have nothing to do with the wicked Pope and his Jesuit order and are just deceived like the rest of humanity. There are very many true children of God all over the world who are called in Revelation 18:4 to leave Babylon of all fallen churches. As said, Sunday dates back to Babylonian times as the day of the sun god, whose worship in the Old Testament was forbidden to Jews under penalty of death, since Satan gets that worship. The first day of the week is still called Sunday in some languages because it harks back to Babylonian sun worship. So Sunday = Day of the Sun, or Sunday = Day of Sun in English etc. This allows us to see that we are living in the same pagan world as in ancient history. So it is no coincidence that the sun symbol is upside down on the statue of "Paulus" in Rome, or on many religious symbols used by popes and bishops.

In addition, e.g. the bishop's hat with the mouth open at the top, called miter, originating from the cult of the fish god Dagon, is not accidentally the same as in the archaeological finds of these priests. On the other hand, in the Bible we have the seventh day = Saturday as a true day of acknowledgment and worship of the Creator. The Sabbath commandment is the seal of the Ten Commandments because it contains the title and name and jurisdiction of the legislator. It shows that God is the Creator and King of this planet. If we accept this seal, we declare which side we have chosen. One can see in the prophecies that as part of the "implementation" of world peace by the same circles that previously prepared the organised wars and crises, there will come a worldwide agreement that all people on earth will commune on Sundays with the religious leader of mankind, the Pope, pray together for peace.

It is only at this moment that the decision for the seventh or first day of the week will have a crucial meaning of choosing between 2 different flags and thus the future in eternity. Today people are made aware of the Sabbath commandment again. For a long time, Christians were unaware that they were praising the true God on the wrong day of rest. And the merciful God judges every man in the eternal sense according to how he has acted within the limits of what he knew. God knows with each person whether they have fully accepted the little light of truth that is available to them and implemented it in life. Therefore, countless people from the past will be saved, some not even knowing that there is a Creator.

But none of these have rejected the speaking of the Holy Spirit through the conscience, and have fully implemented it within the limits of what is known to them, without having trespassed on the other side's territory. But with the polarisation in the end times, the complete truth will also reach everyone who wants to accept God, and there will only be two poles. Also the Trinity with the Holy Spirit as a "being" comes from the other side. The only two Divine Beings are God the Father and His Son Jesus. The Holy Spirit is the direct presence of God the Father and Jesus. The doctrine of the Trinity began at the Council of Nicaea in AD 325 when it was formally adopted. At the Council of Constantinople in 381 AD it was again decided that the Holy Spirit was the third person of a triune God. Worshipping the false god called the Holy Spirit is a violation of the first commandment.

I myself grew up in a Sabbath-keeping church, the majority of which has today unfortunately strayed from the truth on all levels. Even though the truth of the last days is there in the prophetic word. Only a very small remnant has remained true to our Savior and His truth. The third quality of God's last people described in Revelation is, as said, the testimony of Jesus, which is the spirit of prophecy as a prophetic gift. This does not speak anything contrary to the Bible. The testimony of Jesus was literally fulfilled through the visions of Ellen G. White, which do not lead away from the Bible as with the false prophets, but in the opposite direction lead to Jesus and the Bible. Their writings contain a magnificent description of His imminent coming, with detailed and important warnings about the pitfalls of the other side, such as drawing a minefield so that we do not have to step on a mine.

In this sense, it is also no coincidence that Revelation has announced this, since it is very necessary in the last days with the strongest war between the evil and the good side. At the same time, in her books like "The Life of Jesus Christ" Ellen White describes the love of God so deeply that one marvels at how the Almighty can love such small, fallen beings like us so much. Their visions have also led many Christians back to healthy eating according to biblical principles, as this is also part of the life of God's children. The most important book of Ellen White about the End Time is "The Great Controversy Between Christ And Satan". In the first half, the true history of the last 2000 years is described without historical falsification. In the second half, beginning with the chapter "The Origin of Evil" the origin of the conflict between good and evil in heaven before the creation of man is described, and its progression to the present day and the soon coming of Jesus. In it are all the biblical signs of His coming, as well as all counterfeits of the other side.

Reading the almost 150-year-old book, one will be amazed to see everything being fulfilled before our eyes, for it is a comprehensive description of the biblically announced coming events that are now happening or are imminent, as God has told us in the revealed revelation. In these uncertain end times, with so many economic worries and looming world wars terrifying, we will be given great hope that all suffering will soon go away, as well as the knowledge of how to avoid the deception of the other side, as it will be very similar and close to the truth.

There is one interesting and true story from Mexico about this topic. A deeply believing doctor with a strong natural medicine approach received a very ill patient who belonged to the very high rank of Jesuits. She was able to save him through natural means and prayer. When he asked her how he could say thank you, she asked to visit him to have a deep conversation with him. When she was there and they were both talking about Bible truth, he suddenly stopped the discussion and took her to his back room. There he showed her his library, where all the books by Ellen G. White were kept. Then he told her that at his age he wouldn't live long anyway and wanted to tell her the truth.

According to him, the entire upper rank of Jesuits worships Satan with the Pope, and they know that Ellen G. White is a true prophetess of God. Each of them therefore has the complete collection of their books, that they may discern the footsteps of their enemy, as they unfortunately call God. In addition, they were the first to take over the management of many universities and absolutely all churches, so that evolution, ecumenism, charismatic approaches with music and dance are now also finding more and more acceptance there, with simultaneous relativisation of the meaning of the Bible and rejection of the prophetess Ellen G. White.

There is NO organised church in this day and age because the end time church of Laodicea was spat out and became part of Babylon and ecumenism! God only has individuals and groups who have remained faithful to Him. The modern leaders of the fallen churches have introduced liberalism, meditation prayer and Trinity worship and NLP hypnosis to theological universities, giving the other side direct access to the mind of future preachers. But on the other hand, a growing group is being formed that accepts the truth, and keeps and proclaims it, also from the top floor to the bottom. In addition, there are more and more independent people as "talking stones" who, despite the official ban on leadership in many churches or the Internet videos, proclaim the truth and wake up the seduced.

As mentioned above, God announced in the prophecy in Revelation 3:15-17 about His end-time church Laodicea that unfortunately He will have to spit them out because they have become tepid and have fallen away from Him and organisationally from His truth. Thus, almost all prophecies have actually been fulfilled, and only the last steps are missing until the coming of Jesus. But as you can see, nobody went too far before God, and even the priest who served the other side directly found his way back to God through the missionary work of this doctor. Therefore, God invites us to win those around us to Him so that as many as possible may be saved.

What is also important to mention is that the same thing works with other churches as well, and this world view is gaining ground more and more quickly. Most of the great evangelists, like Billy Graham who filled big stadiums, actually belong to the other side. Billy Graham was actually a 33rd degree Mason and directly worshiped Satan (in this group from 30th degree). In his events he aroused many emotions with the message in the background that everyone will be saved no matter how they live. And there, too, the charismatic spirit is strengthened.

The dependencies on the bad things in corrupt end times

As far as dependencies are concerned, the following can be stated in terms of genes: For example, the type of multiple neuron connections in the brain, which develop through the lifestyle of the parents and physically influence the mentality and tendencies of the offspring, are inherited. The more often you perform an action, the more connections are formed between the nerve cells, and the action becomes a habit. So we know what the addiction constellations are based on, e.g. with the pornography that is widespread today. Have you ever wondered why you can get these for free everywhere on the internet?

It is no coincidence as this was also organised by the other side. This leads to immoral self-defilement behind closed doors. In addition, there is homosexuality, which has become normal (banned as a serious sin in the Old and New Testaments in OT: Lev. 18.22 + 20.13 in NT: Rom. 1.26f.; 1 Cor. 6.9-11; 1. Tim 1:10) and much more that is valued positively by corrupt society. If we think about the connections formed between nerve cells, we can understand why breaking the habit is so difficult. Every person has different genetic weaknesses.

But if one presents the tendencies as a reason that it is right to enjoy this way of life, one could justify anything, even killing oneself. Of course, these weaknesses, which are often genetic defects based on cultural or learned lifestyles, are difficult to overcome. But God can and will empower us with His power to take control of our bad tendencies and live happily ever after, no matter how far we've fallen and when an inner voice tells us we've already gone too far.

The effect of Jesus on our hearts and in overcoming our weaknesses

Jesus gave eternal life to the criminal on the cross next to Him at the last minute because he deeply regretted his old life and accepted Jesus as his Savior. An old evangelist Emilio Knechtle met the president of a very large American lesbian association on a plane, and she told him how she had been disgusted by the sight of a man since she was a child. He helped her get to know Jesus, and soon after, she was happily married and had children. Afterwards she said that she can no longer understand that she could previously refuse this.

However, this does not mean that our old tendencies disappear completely, but that we get the strength every day in fellowship with God through prayer and Bible reading to overcome them every day and live happily. In that sense, it doesn't matter if it's a weakness for drugs, crime, adultery, lies, gossip, hatred, jealousy, greed for money, promotion in professional life no matter what it costs, etc. But worst of all, as mentioned before, we genetically pass our habits on to our poor children, making it much harder for them to make that very choice and get eternal life!

Unfortunately, today's science, controlled by circles on the other side, teaches fallen people that weaknesses cannot be conquered because they are built in. But God is calling us to overcome them! Yet all the ministers in today's world say that God loves us all, and indirectly or even directly, in their view, therefore, one may do anything immoral except murder or theft, since one will be saved anyway. It is true that God love us and that He invites all, no matter how far they have fallen, to surrender to Him and experience new birth through His power. But it also means getting a pure mind and strength, and breaking bad habits with prayer, instead of saying every day I will do it only today once more.

Full of love Jesus says: "Whoever loves me keeps my commandments". Unfortunately, at His near coming, very few will have eternal life because they listened to their ministers who delivered a message for the itching ears, as the Bible describes in 2 Timothy 4:3 for that time. Can you imagine that certain actions and thoughts are practiced in heaven among holy angels? But God is a being of love and does not force anyone to change their character or way of thinking. However, he can only accept those who are happy to come to an unspoilt world and strive to lead a moral life already in this world.

And when they fall, they rise again, so that their character is more and more in accordance with the Ten Commandments, which are a reflection of God's character. God will not change our character in heaven, but will only allow us there to experience continuous positive character development, full of happiness and temptation-free, without the disturbing other side that brought suffering and death to this world! However, many theologians preach that no matter how you live, you will go to heaven. But Jesus declared that when He is coming soon, many will say: Lord, haven't I done this or that in Your name.

Then He would say: I never knew you! Jesus also asked if He will find faith on earth when He returns! Today's people soothe their consciences in the ecumenical union, which is recognisable as godless only at third glance. Often there are hysterical charismatic manifestations of the other side, which promises them eternal life without changing their character, way of life and way of thinking.

Babylon of the End Times - Ecumenism and 2 leading beasts from Revelation. The circles of power behind the scene and the last 144.000 saved on the other side and the end of the evil world

At first glance, ecumenism seems to be a good thing, since humanitarian projects are also supported. In Revelation 18:4 God's people are called to leave Babylon. Does a church say that today? No, since all of them now belong to Babylon. The Bible means three things with the term Babylon. Primeval Babylon right after the Flood where pagan religions were created that still exist today. Then clearly after that, the city of Old Babylon of the Babylonian Empire under King Nebuchadnezzar, who had enslaved the Jewish people after the first apostasy. And finally, the spiritual end-time Babylon of Revelation, in which fallen Christianity is enslaved with false teachings of eternal life and true God. Before Jesus comes, He must allow polarisation and end-time Babylon to carry out their plans. Revelation says there will be two beasts:

-The first beast is the papacy (Rev. 13:1-10), also called the man of wickedness. According to revelation, his deadly wound of 1798 (the Vatican as a state and the Inquisition were terminated until Mussolini made the Vatican state possible again, and its power has been growing every day since then). This is being fulfilled more and more as the Pope has become more important than any President today, which was impossible even 50 years ago. In addition to the number 666, the Bible in Revelation 17:9 describes a city located on seven mountains, which clearly refers to Rome. The Jesuits were founded as an order to stop the Reformation. They are infiltrated everywhere, in politics, in the churches and religions, in the economy and in all other areas.

-The second beast is the USA, which Revelation 13:11-14 describes as a lamb that also speaks like a dragon. We can see this in democracy with simultaneous wars of aggression.

The USA, as today's leading world power, will be used by the papacy for the military carrying out of its goals. The plan is to plunge the world into chaos and then build a Great Reset, i.e. a new form of society with a world dictatorship in which those who want to remain faithful to God will be persecuted.

At the top are the Illuminati, which were actually also founded by the Jesuit founder Ignatio von Layola in the 16th century. After their discovery, it was later presented that they were only founded in the 18th century by Adam Weishaupt as an allegedly small fringe group. Actually, the Jesuits were founded by the Pope as his military police force to win back territories lost to the Protestants. In the lost or inaccessible areas like the USA at that time, or the rest of the world, one had to proceed very skilfully so that the people there did not realise that they too would soon be ruled by the Pope. You had to do it in several stages to perfectly cover all traces.

Since every pope was a Satanist from the beginning with the closest servants around, Ignatio was prepared for the task as such by Layola, who in turn had founded the Illuminati as Satanists as well. The top commander of the Illuminati is the Pope, although not even the lower Illuminati know this. In the next step, they founded the Freemasons, whose highest degrees 30-33 are also Satanists and receive the orders from the lower Illuminati, without knowing that the Pope is at the top.

The function of the black pope was introduced so that the pope's orders could be transmitted unobtrusively. This is the Jesuit General, who can more easily have unseen contact with the upper Illuminati and coordinate orders. The lowest degrees of Freemasonry are normal humanists who don't know anything. As a judge, professor, journalist or businessman, etc., you are invited to join the humane elite who want to improve the world in a religion-neutral manner. Among them are both the religious and atheistic people. These people are actually invited to the "elite" to be controlled and monitored while feeling important.

It is only after the 7th degree that one begins to get the true information about the organisation. In terms of promotion, those are chosen who are willing to do what they are told, no matter what it costs. The good people then remain ignorant on the lower floors, with the honest conviction that they are fighting for a better world with democracy and freedom. Even the lower Jesuits do not know the whole truth about their order.

Through this type of organisation, the Pope was able to get almost all major Protestants in the US or Muslims to become Freemasons without knowing who was actually guiding them behind the curtain. This was necessary in order to establish this New World Order with world religion all over the world. As we can see, it took a very long time, because on the one hand God Himself had slowed it down due to immature time, and on the other hand this was a very complex project.

The problem with this was that the executives of all groups did not know and do not know that they are actually always led by the same person. That is why there was and is a lot of enmity and even murders between the Freemasons and Jesuits, etc. Often one has lost control through such an approach over several instances, which is happening in Latin America due to the communists they founded, who have wrested themselves from control. The Freemasons in turn created organisations like Bilderberger, CFR etc., where you then coordinate the procedure with politicians and economy.

The Freemasons from the 30th degree and the lower Illuminati are responsible for the founding and leadership of sects such as the Mormons, Jehovah's Witnesses, Scientology, Theosophists, esotericists etc., together with upper Jesuits for the infiltration into the leading floors of existing churches, what has long since been completed. In addition, the main task of the lower and middle Jesuits is to disperse inconspicuously among the normal believers and clergy of all churches. As we can see, nothing in this world is by chance. However, it is prophesied in the Bible that once the Pope gains official control of the world through his world religion, all atheists will switch to his side after many crises and supernatural miracles.

Bible described it in Revelation 11:7 the French Revolution and atheism. At first glance, it seems illogical that this Jesuit-founded beast would inflict the mortal wound on the papacy when Napoleon's General Berthier dissolved the Vatican State in 1798. But if you delve a little deeper into history, you would find that shortly before that, an internal power struggle took place within the Catholic Church, with the Dominicans took leadership in the Vatican from the Jesuits.

The Jesuits, together with the Illuminati, wanted to massively change society and the economy anyway, since the masses, liberated by the Reformation and therefore increasingly educated, no longer wanted to accept the old form of society with oppression. They wanted to exploit this to steer humanity in the direction of the New World Order. France was chosen for this because the location there had the highest maturity. At the same time, they wanted to remove the Dominicans, who had a majority in France and the Vatican, from power.

This also succeeded, although in the whole chaos the deadly wound of the papacy came in the Vatican, which took a very long time to heal. Right now, the Illuminati are still the most powerful part of this coming world dictatorship. But this third beast will be completely deposed in the time of the coming papal world peace, having completed its intended role and given the pope full world power, leaving only the two beasts in power according to the Bible, the pope and the USA.

That is why the upper Jesuits have placed themselves invisibly in the same upper political, economic and ecclesiastical circles parallel to the Illuminati, so that the later takeover of power can be carried out quickly. There are still many conflicts between the two groups today, as there are within all criminal organisations.

In Daniel chapter 11 the final taking of power of the atheistic Illuminati side by the pope as a conflict between the king of the north = Pope and the king of the south = Illuminati, Freemasons etc. is described very well symbolically, which can only be recognised and understood properly after deep study. The ruler over all these animals is the dragon = Satan, who spits out three spirits like frogs, who seduce all the kings on earth. This is mainly Spiritism, this time in a triple strength, united with the religion of the fallen churches of the old and new world. You would be surprised how many kings today, such as in England, speak to "spirits" and seek help with their decisions.

These unbound spirits will soon perform unimaginable miracles, even appearing as apostles and benevolent people from the past to deceive people. These miracles will be so powerful that only those who are in deep communion with the Savior and His Bible will be able to resist the temptation. During this time, the theory of evolution will also disappear, since Satan will then appear personally as the alleged Jesus, and will draw the whole world to himself through many unbelievably great miracles.

He will explain in a soft voice that he has changed the day of rest from the Sabbath to Sunday. He will heal many people and do good works, similar to today's rulers who organise wars and at the same time support humanitarian projects full of "love" with a lot of money. These good works of Satan are done to so deceive mankind that all but the rest of God's people will end up worshipping him. Satan will pretend to enforce the greatest peace in history. Once this false system, prepared by many wars, has fully unfolded, the seven plagues of God will come. Then the false Jesus will command to persecute the true children of God who have not joined this Babylon as terrorists claiming they had brought this curse to earth and did not want to support peace.

But after the beginning of the seven plagues and the simultaneous end of the time of grace, he will no longer be allowed to kill anyone, because the time of grace will be over and no one would come to God and eternal life moved by this blood. It would only mean a triumph for Satan over God's saved people, and therefore he will only be able to pursue and imprison them with the utmost pressure.

Since we ourselves are strongly degenerated, this worldwide polarisation has only now become possible through immense technological advances with unlimited communication and travel possibilities, so that the truth and lies are announced to the whole world for decision at the same time. In Daniel 12:4, the Bible announced a strong increase in knowledge for the end times, which has clearly been fulfilled. Therefore, after the first coming of Jesus, another 2000 years had to pass, during which Satan was able to delay progress for a very long time through the inquisition. The prophecy of Satan's direct dominion over the earth has still not been fully fulfilled as according to Revelation the 4 angels hold back the 4 winds of war until the polarisation is fully ripe.

According to Revelation, the last survivors at Jesus' second coming are only the 144,000 followers of God who are firmly established in God and His Word. After their persecution, which occurs during the seven plagues, they will be the only ones alive to experience the coming of Jesus and will be taken to heaven with a large crowd of resurrected people of all generations. Although this number seems small, we should consider that out of a few billion people, only 8 were saved in the Flood.

Actually, the number 144,000 is an incredibly high number meant to show triumph at the coming of Jesus. Satan does everything within his power to prevent the high number of established people from becoming complete. However, this does not mean that only this number will be saved from today's time, since very many converts will die before it. This literal number refers to those people who, after the end of God's grace and great persecution, will live to see His coming.

The real Jesus will then make them immortal and also resurrect immortal those who died and take them all to heaven. According to the Bible, he will not walk on earth, in contrast to the false Jesus, who will sit next to the pope. This way we can distinguish false and true coming of Jesus. What the probation of God is still needs to be explained. When Jesus was on earth, there was a temple in Jerusalem. This was an image of the heavenly temple where Jesus is our High Priest today. He does what the Levitical high priests used to do, only with the difference that Jesus intercedes for the sins of the people with His own shed blood. This is described in the Bible in the Epistle to the Hebrews.

In the earthly temple, once a year on the great Day of Atonement, the High Priest went into the Most Holy place, where stood the Ark of the Covenant which contained the two tablets of the Ten Commandments, and on which was the presence of God in the form of the Shekinah between two golden cherubim. Likewise, in 1844, Jesus went into this part of the heavenly temple to do the final part of His redemptive work. At the time of the seven plagues, He will complete His ministry and leave this place. Then there will be no more forgiveness for sins and the time of grace in which we live today will be over. This means that these 144,000 will never sin again!

Jesus showed everyone that this is possible. He had completely renounced the divine nature and became human like us. He conquered every sin with a weak body because he was with His Father in prayer day and night, so that He received strength from the Father to resist sin. Likewise, we must have the same connection with God so that we can live without any sin by His power in the time to come. Many deceptive theologians say that Jesus did not sin because of His divine nature, which is absolutely against the Bible. Actually, their message is that we should continue to avoid any sins, since they cannot be conquered anyway. If so, Lucifer would be right in claiming that God is unjust because His commandments cannot be kept.

The Bible says something completely different and shows us Enoch in the Old Testament, who walked with God and was taken up alive into heaven before the flood. So He lived in the state of the 144,000. It is therefore logical that according to the Bible, these people in heaven will enjoy the special position of being constantly around and with Jesus wherever He goes. There are two reasons, namely why the coming of Jesus is being postponed for so long, and that with the power of God we can conquer all sins!

Ellen G. White had visions of heaven, which are published in the book Early Writings. In it she has well described this struggle of the last generation against sin. These last children of God take the narrow way up. First they take all suitcases and drive with vehicles on this path. The way leads higher and higher, and from below one hears loud music, drunkards shouting, tainted words and other things that attract but separate from God. Some turn their heads down, lose their balance and fall back down. For the others, the path is getting narrower and narrower, so that they have to put down more and more suitcases and other things after the vehicles have been left behind, while the voices from below become quieter and quieter.

Almost at the end the path becomes so narrow that you even have to take off your shoes so that you can tiptoe. Then the path disappears completely, and at that end you see before you a deep chasm with fallen people below. At the end of it stands Jesus on the other side, from whom light emanates. After deep prayer, a rope suddenly comes out of the air, which they grasp with courage and trust and which leads them to the other side. The rope, which is initially thin like a thread, becomes thicker and thicker, and the path becomes easier and easier until they reach their destination with Jesus. It is precisely this last phase that represents the condition of the 144,000 after the end of probation.

They must completely renounce themselves and only grasp the hand of God, like Peter on the sea, if they do not want to fall into the abyss but arrive in the heavenly kingdom. And just like that, they will manage to live without any sin, just like our Savior during His sojourn on earth in human form. The devil works day and night to keep people from making the right decision, and also to delay his eternal death, which will come after the coming of Jesus and the heavenly judgment.

It is actually sad that what was once the most powerful created being in the universe could fall to such a low level that his livelihood is to keep as many as possible from eternal life out of jealousy. Soon Jesus will come with His angels and destroy everything but His followers. The bad people will all be destroyed at the same time, so that life will no longer exist on earth. Satan will then be tied up with his demons for 1,000 years in the abyss of the destroyed earth, since he will no longer be allowed to travel to other planets and will have no people on earth to seduce.

They will wander the devastated earth with no people and life to realise what actually caused their rebellion. In those 1,000 years we will participate in the heavenly judgment where each and every case will be presented to us and to the whole universe in full depth with the explanation of why that human or fallen angel could not be saved. This is also necessary, because otherwise we might think that some of our acquaintances or our family could be saved after all and it was not correct that they lost eternal life with the rest of the wicked people.

Only when we are shown all the most secret details and thoughts from the lives of all people, some of whom we have loved dearly, will we realise that despite the unlimited love of God, their eternal life was impossible. After these 1,000 years, our mourning will also finally disappear. Only after that, after the end of the 1,000 years of the heavenly judgment, will the capital of the universe, the heavenly Jerusalem, be moved to earth, which after this long war will become the new center of the universe. With this, God will show the entire universe that the spot where Jesus gave His blood for us will be the final place of His eternal abode and throne, as an enduring reminder of what He has done for us and the universe, and as a sign of victory over sin.

In this sense, Jesus will also keep the scars of the cross throughout eternity. Then the wicked of all generations will be resurrected at once, so that they can be shown why they lost the eternal life so lovingly offered, and receive their just punishment. Once they are resurrected in their old mortal form, Satan will tell everyone that he has resurrected them and that together they can take over the city of Jerusalem with lots of gold and the tree of life in it. After 1,000 years of his own depression, even he will get new hope to conquer God after all.

After all humans and demons have gathered around this indescribable city of New Jerusalem, they will see, as in a panoramic video projection, the whole story from the rebellion in heaven up to the present moment. Everyone will be shown all the details and thoughts of their whole life, so that they will also have to realise that they do not deserve eternal life. At that indescribable moment, all fallen humans and demons including Satan will get on their knees and praise God's righteousness. Now many would ask, why not give these people eternal life when everyone has repented? Their repentance will actually be motivated only by grief at the loss of their eternal bliss, and not by grief at their ungodly life. If they were given eternal life, they would continue to live immoral, wicked, and anti-God lives just as they did before.

After this disillusionment, everyone will try to conquer the city of Jerusalem. This will be the final proof to the universe that, despite the grace of God, these persons could not have eternal life. Then fire will come from heaven, and everyone will burn as long as his guilt was heavy. Some with little guilt will burn only briefly, and Satan will burn the longest to receive just punishment for all the suffering he has caused. After that, the earth and the universe will be cleansed of all traces of the long war, so that the new earth and the new heaven (in biblical language) will come into being.

The Doctrine of Eternal Hell

The fire described above is the eternal hell that the Bible speaks of. It won't be forever, but its consequence will be. It was not eternal in Sodom and Gomorrah either, although the fire over those two cities was also called eternal fire in Jude 7. This shows how sinners will be destroyed with everlasting fire after the coming of Jesus. The term eternal refers to the consequences of the fire and not to its duration. The doctrine of ever-burning hell is unbiblical.

The fire over these two then indescribably depraved cities of Sodom and Gommora, where even the travellers were immediately raped by the masses, came at that time because it would have spread so much over the whole earth at that time that the first coming of Jesus again would not have been possible. Why? Even when Jesus was born, all the babies in His native city were killed. And He had to come into the world as a baby in terms of the plan of salvation, because in order to redeem mankind from the curse of sin, He had to become one of us. In this way He was able to show the whole universe that it is possible to live as a human without sin.

God takes no pleasure in tormenting wicked people forever. Otherwise he would not be a being of love. But Satan wants to portray our dear God as evil and unjust through the teaching of eternally burning hell, and at the same time make us believe that we have an immortal soul. The teaching that hell is a so-called purgatory, through which one must first be "cleansed" before one can go to heaven, is also unbiblical. In this sense one would not have to convert to God in this life, since one could still go from hell to heaven. One could enjoy one's life in sin, since one would end up in heaven only a little later after being "purified" in purgatory.

Jesus' parable of the rich young ruler and poor Lazarus is in the New Testament. It tells how the beggar Lazarus, after he died, lay in Abraham's bosom, while the rich young man, after he died, cried out for help in the fires of hell. But that was a parable and the message was that even if one of them could come back to earth, none would convert to God. For God speaks through the law and the prophets, and we should listen to them.

When Jesus told the parable, the Pharisees realised that they were in the position of the rich young ruler who did not care for the poor and sick, but relied on his lineage from Abraham. Jesus held up a mirror for them to see themselves in. That's what the parable is about. He did not teach that hell is a place where one is cruelly tormented forever! The New Testament also says that when Jesus was crucified, the earth shook and tombs were opened and resurrected people came out of them.

They went to heaven with Jesus. The Bible makes it clear that the dead know nothing until they are resurrected, e.g. in the book of Ecclesiastes. In the Old Testament, in the books of Moses, communication with the dead is forbidden under death penalty. If these dead were in heaven, wouldn't it be illogical that any contact with them is forbidden as a major sin? Individual cases are described in the Bible where people were taken to heaven, but never as spirits, but always alive. According to the Old Testament, Enoch, the prophet Elijah and Moses are also in heaven.

According to the letter of Jude in the New Testament, God personally resurrected Moses before he was taken to heaven. So we can understand why Elijah and Moses could come down from heaven and converse with Jesus on a mountain, which is written in the gospels. Heaven is a realm of living people and angels, not the spirits of dead people! When Saul strayed from God, faced a war against the Philistines and received no answer from God, in desperation he went to a soothsayer and asked that she enable him to speak with the spirit of the prophet Samuel.

There did come a "Samuel" in the same form with the same familiar voice, but that was a fallen angel. Would God's faithful prophet Samuel have spoken from heaven to Saul through a soothsayer from the other side? God had decreed that all soothsayers among His people must be cut off as deceivers of His people! The story continued that God completely withdrew His protection from Saul, whereupon Saul lost his life. And as said before, the same thing is happening in spiritistic circles today, where demons get direct access to these people, thereby becoming possessed and losing eternal life.

A mother whose son officially died as a soldier in Siberia became very sad. A year later, a spiritualist told her that her son often came to their meetings and asked about her. She immediately joined this group. There her son appeared as a ghost with the same appearance and voice, who refreshed the old memories with her. So they met constantly for three years. Then someone knocked on her door. She was surprised to find that this was her living son. She learned that after a long period of imprisonment, he was released and could come home. She realised with horror that she had been in contact with demons before and that God gave her one more chance to come back to Him and not lose eternal life.

Even the statement by Jesus to the criminal on the cross that he will be in heaven with Him today is not a proof that spirits go to heaven. The New Testament is in ancient Greek, without commas. We can assume that Jesus said to the criminal: I tell you today that you will be with me in heaven. Jesus himself was not in heaven after his death because on the Sunday after his resurrection he said that one should not touch him because he was not yet with the father. We all know that after His resurrection, Jesus ate a fish in front of his apostles to prove to them that he is not a spirit. He later ascended to heaven alive.

God's plan of salvation

Father and son have thereby taken a great risk of losing the kingdom of the whole universe because of their children on earth. But out of love, Jesus renounced His divine power and came to earth in the form of fallen and degenerate humans, with all the weaknesses present. Before that, we saw that even a non-degenerate man had fallen into temptation. Had Jesus fallen at the slightest temptation, Lucifer would have had proof that even the Creator and Author of the Law cannot keep it. This would destroy the rescue plan, but also the whole heavenly kingdom.

At the same time, Jesus would not have been able to retrieve his voluntarily surrendered divinity, whereby the Father would also have lost Him for eternity, as well as all other converted followers of God on the fallen world of earth. If our God were not full of unlimited love, it would have been easier for Him to destroy the angels and inhabitants of all planets and create new ones who would have no sin or doubt of God's government, since they would not have heard Lucifer's accusations against God. But since the dear God does not want to lose anyone and has done everything conceivable for us, He invites us to accept His immeasurable sacrifice and eternal life.

When Pontius Pilate asked the people whether to release the criminal Barabbas or Jesus, demons in human form were among those who cried out for Barabbas to be released. This made it perfectly clear to the whole universe that Satan has unlimited wickedness. Satan, as Lucifer is called after his war in heaven, had hitherto portrayed the killings as the result of "God's dictatorship", but now there was no longer any doubt that the execution of Jesus, the popular ruler of the entire universe, were caused by himself and its spiteful nature. The whole universe was filled with horror, and Satan lost the right to visit the heavenly capital because Jesus, through His sacrifice, became the new representative of all people on earth.

The question still to be answered is why there is so much suffering on this earth despite the good Lord. Since the whole universe is watching us intently, and God's support, despite his unlimited power, depends on our democratic decision, He can only help us if we make the right decision and choose sides. Our prayer gives Him our consent before the universe to help us supernaturally. And if we also pray for others, this also opens the door of God's help for their salvation, even if they have not made the right decision themselves as being deceived.

In such a situation, the enemy cannot blame God for helping one who did not choose Him and was rather in other territory. All the hardships, evils and sufferings in this world actually come only from the fallen angels, and Almighty God longs for our prayers so that He can help us! We ourselves do not know how many times his angels saved us from certain death. But we must understand that He judges everything from the perspective of eternity. In this sense, our short life on earth compared to the eternal time of immortality is more of an opportunity to make a right decision for eternal life.

It often happens when someone is very ill and God sees that this person is ready for eternal life, that He lets them die so that they will not lose eternal life through a possible wrong decision later. God does in such a case not shorten earthly life, but does not heal the serious illness. He doesn't want us to die before our time. Jesus clearly showed this, e.g. by raising Lazarus from the dead. God's supernatural work in this world has only one goal: to make eternal life possible for all who choose for Him and against sin.

Related to this topic, exists one true story: A Christian mother was very sad because her son left our God and became a drug dealer. She prayed for him for many years with tears in her eyes. One day he came back to her and told her that he had felt God's call and had made up his mind to leave the old life. They both prayed together on their knees and he repented of all his sins, asking for forgiveness. A few days later his old colleagues came and killed him. Although the mother was very sad and disappointed, she soon understood that God in His mercy allowed it.

It is almost certain that this person's weakness for the old life would soon become strong again and he would have gone back to his old environment with the loss of eternal life. Of course, our Savior did not cause this murder, but in His love he did not prevent it, lest he lose his eternal life. Since we do not have absolute knowledge, we should let God lead our lives alone, since only He knows what will bring us to eternal life. In this context exists also the false doctrine of destiny that predicts in advance who will be saved. This is also a trap of the other side, and contrary to God's democratic principles. Because of this teaching, many Christians live without bothering to be with God, thinking that their fate is already decided and the way of life doesn't affect anything anymore.

Looking through a different lens, some think that God is not omnipotent because He has to constantly change His plans in this war between both sides, although He gave prophecies regarding national development depending on other aspects. All of this would be correct if we disregarded the fact that God only recognises decisions made voluntarily and does not want to force anything on anyone. If everything were predetermined, it would also be impossible to make a decision or change it. The greatest love is when someone relinquishes their power and opportunities so that their subjects are free in their lives and choices.

Likewise, our God has deliberately renounced His power of determining the future of a person or nation, lest He would otherwise thwart our free will. All that He had to provide prophetically in order to give us eternal life and victory over sin was the development of history, which He directed by His power. But not because he himself did not know how the earth would develop, but so that this suffering also comes to an end. As almighty and omniscient, he has put on symbolic glasses for himself so that nothing can be preordained, otherwise he would be a dictator, as the enemy also claims.

Miracle of my healing - GOD literally interrupted my dying

I want to share with you the experience of my miraculous healing by the power of God, so that we can see that even the healthiest diet without God makes no sense. In 2010, at the age of 38, I got a brain cancer that was about 4 cm in diameter. I switched to a healthy vegan diet, followed by highly concentrated plant extracts such as Boswellia Serrata, Green Magma, and freshly squeezed juices so that the tumour shrunk down, and a biopsy confirmed only inactive tissue. Since I was very weak from the disease, I was not able to make right decisions. Today I would not have allowed a biopsy, since it can stimulate activation of the tumour. Even when there is cancer, its development and activity can be observed through MR scan (Magnetic Resonance) and only in explosive growth some intervention, which otherwise brings more harm than good, makes sense. But with most tumours, inactivity or residual scarring can only be observed when transitioning to an extremely healthy life.

Unfortunately, the biopsy, in addition to activating the tumour (through irritation), brought me an injury in one place that causes instability, so I was forced to take toxic antiepileptics, which to some extent prevented the full effects of my healthy life. After the biopsy intervention, I lost about 10 kg and became very weak. But as I began to live entirely on health principles, I soon gained more strength than before I got the tumour. My lost weight returned in muscle shape, without touching meat or milk, or applying heavy weight training (which was impossible after having brain surgery). I felt as good as never before in my life, so I no longer felt the desire for closer contact with God or to make a clear decision of belonging only to Him. After one year, MRI control showed that my brain was in a stable state without tumour growth. Then I separated myself even further from the Saviour and decided that I did not need such an "extremely" healthy diet because I was already "strong" and "healthy". A month later, there was a new explosion of the disease in my brain, where an additional, new big process grew on the other, until then, untouched half of my brain, which through explosive growth additionally caused several bleedings, the largest as a ball of almost 3 cm. I can say that almost my whole brain was symbolically „eaten“.

If I had not applied many aspects of natural medicine before that, which comes from God's pharmacy, such bleeding would have caused apoplexy, even in me, by bursting tissue with the removal of one side of the body or even instant death. But since my tissue was not corroded by too unhealthy life, it was elastic, so that despite all the bleeding, I was able to walk and move normally. Due to a strong headache, I ended up in the hospital again, where the doctors told me that I should go home and say goodbye to my family, because healing was impossible, and death was right in front of me. I was thinking about my meaningless life without God and I decided to accept Him again with all my heart, no matter what would happen to me. That Saturday, I invited several faithful people and a preacher to our home to perform an anointing prayer. It was a day with a blue sky, without a single cloud and dry air. We were praying with tears in our eyes that the Almighty would give me life if it was His will.

After the prayer, it suddenly started hailing. We did not expect hail because of the nice weather. We had the impression that the ceiling was shaking from loud thunder. And I immediately felt better. On Monday, the MRI showed that the new process on the other side of my brain, and the entire lesion, and all the bleeding were completely gone, as if they had never happened. Even when someone survives such heavy bleeding, it takes a couple of months for the lesion to disappear, and the lesion usually leaves scars. The team of professors then said that this was inexplicable with the natural teachings and medicine, and some of them had wet eyes, because they could recognise God's miracle and that He really does exist.

On the other hand, God then left a primary cancer on the other side of the brain as a warning that I must change completely, of course only through God's guidance and power. The Bible describes how our Holy and glorious God personally gave the Ten Commandments to His prophet Moses on Mount Sinai. Strong thunder could be heard all the time. Our Creator thus signed, so that no one would think that Moses Himself engraved those Ten Commandments, but so that everyone would receive proof from Whom they came. This is exactly how our Saviour signed my miraculous healing so that no one could claim that it was "spontaneous" healing, as God's miraculous action is often signified, to silence the contending that calls for a change of life and acceptance of the truth. Despite everything, at that time I still did not fully come to God, but my religious life took the form of a sine wave. After some time, I slowly stopped taking extremely healthy nutrients and plant extracts such as Boswellia Serrata. God had to continue to comfort me to come even closer to Him. My tumour reactivated and grew again. In August 2018, I was literally dying, but my mom and wife spent the whole night on their knees, supported by prayers from a large number of humble people.

And God said NO to death! I stayed alive, and I was taken directly to the hospital. The doctors told me that they did not expect the possibility of staying alive with this constellation, but that they would at least try to operate on me, although even then if I survive the operation at all, I will probably live only a few weeks to 2-3 months. After the operation, the surgeon told me that he was holding a small cut part of my tumour in his hand and that it was the most dangerous and fastest tumour with Glioblastoma (grade of malignancy 4). Only after that did I fully realise that I was dying again, and I gave my life completely to God. In one deep prayer, I promised Him that with every atom of my strength I would reveal HIS OLD trampled truth of our pioneers about God the Father and His literal Son Jesus (against pagan Trinity, which came into Christianity in the Year 325 AD, and not in the Bible exists), and share my book "First Commandment OR Trinity" and the Ellen White's book "The Great Controversy between Christ and Satan" as an announcement of Jesus' immediate coming. Immediately at the end of the prayer, I heard an extremely clear voice:

“I will not let you die eternally”

The word "eternal" was never present in my expression, so God showed me that these were really His words, not my thoughts! My understanding is that He told me that I would stay alive until the coming of Jesus (of course only if I remained in communion with Him). For God to practically prove that these were indeed His words, a few hours later I received a phone call (which is not common in Germany) from the chief doctor of that medical field, who was not in charge of my case and who I had not met with before. He said with a trembling and shocked voice, that there was an incomprehensible change in the diagnosis of my tumour. Tissue analysis showed that the tumour was of another form, in which (although the grade of malignancy was 3) treatment (not a cure, but only to slow down growth) with chemotherapy in capsules and photon radiation was possible! God said His own! My tumour was incomprehensible almost 10 × 9 cm before the operation, and after the operation, it still remained almost 8 cm large.

After my prayer, many patients and employees from various departments of the hospital, and even clergy, began to ask me questions about the real truth, accepting the truth and the "Great Controversy between Christ and Satan" in hand, even by a Catholic priest, who heard in the conversation who the beast (from Revelation in the Bible) is, what our past was and what preceded the coming of Jesus, and who then shared this book also with an evangelical pastor. I could write an even longer article about the supernatural miracles of testimonies that happened during my hospital stay, where God literally prepared His children to receive the truth. Many of them showed complete happiness that they were given an opportunity to know the truth. In January 2019, the MRI found that the tumour had shrunk from 8x8cm to 4x2cm! God's people continued to pray for me, and I continued to have great experiences with unknown people of this world, some of them coming directly to me and asking to hear the truth! After accepting the truth, many people said they thought God had performed a literal miracle to give them a chance to hear the truth.

It happened to one doctor that he interrupted the medical conversation, and told me that he felt God's presence in the whole room and that he saw the whole room literally illuminated by supernatural light! He thanked me with all his heart for the "Great Controversy between Christ and Satan" and for getting to know God directly because before that he was not sure if God really did exist! In June 2019, after half a year of faith and prayer by many dear people, I went for a new MRI. After the examination, I saw two different screens, one with the current image and one with an image from a few months ago, and noticed that the tumour was much bigger on one of the screens. At that moment, I almost lost hope of a cure. But then the doctor invited me for a conversation and showed me that the MRI image of the smaller tumour was the one I had gotten done that day!

For my type of tumour, there is usually no reduction but only explosive growth! Shocked by this fact, the doctor could not let me go, even though several patients were already waiting for a conversation that normally lasts a maximum of 10 minutes! He tried all the time to deny God's miracle and tried to find evidence of his position, but after an hour he had to give up his argument, and come to terms with the fact that God really does exist! The MRI from February 2020 showed that my former malignant brain tumour with a diameter of almost 10 × 9 cm NO LONGER EXISTS! MRI scan of my brain cancer while I was dying (left picture) and after my miraculous healing (right picture):

Today I am completely healthy and in every aspect as normal as 10 years ago. I still have a lot of missionary experiences today. I share "The Great Controversy" daily and through that, I end up in blessed conversations with many sincere people, and a lot of them show great joy at being given the opportunity to hear eternal truth. The Spirit of God in this last phase before the coming of Jesus has a special effect on human minds, and never before have people been so ready to hear and accept the truth than now. May God make us ready for the soon coming of Jesus in glory, and to spend eternity together in heaven! For our salvation, Jesus risked His eternal existence when He came to Earth to die for us! May God bless us and lead us to complete truth and eternal life while the time of probation still lasts!
